SEE PREMIER ON VICTORIA REACT PLAN

Committee Arranges Conference With Gov't on Proposed Improvement Bill

SEEK GRANT FROM UNEMPLOYED FUND

Will Also Ask for Exchange on Old Rifle Range Property

PROPOSALS of a definite nature will be advanced to the Premier of British Columbia and the Minister of Public Works on Tuesday next by the Victoria beautification committee which is outlining a scheme for the improvement of Victoria as the Capital City of the province.

The proposals, three in number, and summarized, are as follows:
The adoption, in principle, of a bill under which the Provincial Government would make an annual grant for improvement purposes for a term of years and to be administered by a Government-appointed commission.
The setting aside a sum of money from the Federal Government unemployment aid fund to be used for beautification work as a provincial undertaking.

EXCHANGE OF PROPERTY
The exchange of Provincial Government property at Albert Head for the old Oliver Point rifle range property at present controlled by the Department of National Defence of the Dominion Government. Prime Minister Toimin has set 2:30 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, to receive the delegation, which will consist of the whole committee with H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., as speaker. The committee held a special session yesterday.

NATURE OF BILL
The draft bill, which will be presented to the Premier and the Minister of Public Works, has been patterned after the Ottawa city improvement bill of 1927 with the exception that no stated amount of the annual grant is contained therein. The bill will ask for power to be continued on Page 2, Column 3.

TOLL OF MINE MISHAP GROWS

Deaths in Disaster at Alsdorf, Germany, Have Reached 255 Total

FUNERALS ON SATURDAY

ALSDORF, Germany, Oct. 23.—The death toll in the Anne coal mine disaster of Tuesday here reached 255 tonight, and it was believed a few more would be found in the debris-filled mine. The total includes sixteen who have died in hospitals of injuries.

Because of the great number of dead, the cemetery here has proved too small, and preparations were made today to lay out a new burial ground. In it, on Saturday morning, the dead miners will be placed in common graves.

MAN IS MADE HAPPY

One man who very nearly became a victim of the happy tonight, Kasper Luetthoff, when first taken from the mine, was laid among the dead. Later he showed signs of life and was taken to the hospital.

The cause of the explosion is still a mystery, although the theory of fire damp is widely held.

COMPANY ATTACKED

Communist speakers at a number of public meetings in the region today energetically attacked the Eastern Mining Company, owners of the mine.

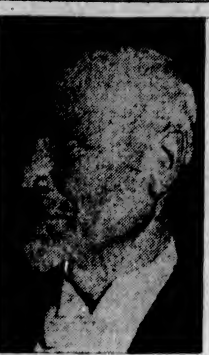

A strong force of police prevented the speakers from leading a march through the town, but refrained from interfering with a demonstration at the entrance of the wrecked pit, where more speeches were made. The meetings were free from disorders.

Novel Method Employed To Refloat Stranded Ship

Having carried out another successful piece of salvage work in freeing the freighter Henry S. Grove from the tight grip in which she was being held by the rocks of Potos Island, Gulf of Georgia, the Pacific Salvage Company's powerful steamship Salvage King, Captain J. M. Hewson, returned to her berth in the Inner Harbor last night, after delivering the stranded vessel at the Todd Drydock, Seattle.

When the Salvage King reached the scene of the stranding on Tuesday, divers were sent down the bottom of the hard and fast vessel. They discovered that the rocks had punctured the outer skin, sticking up through it, and would hold until such time as the water level was lightened forward. This was done and a considerable tonnage of ore and some 600 tons of oil were removed. The afterhold was then flooded with water to help put the ship's bow up, while the Salvage

Says Conference Is Biggest Event

Former Prime Minister and now leader of the Opposition, at a political meeting at Pretoria, described the present Imperial Conference as the biggest thing that had happened in the whole of the Empire. He did not remember any conference with such significance and such possibility for good, he said.

MISSION AT JAACHOW IS DEMOLISHED

Communists Continue Campaign Against Foreign and Chinese Christians

LAZARIST ORPHANAGE AND SCHOOL PILLAGED

SHANGHAI, Oct. 23.—Communists, waging a fierce campaign against foreign and Chinese Christians in Kiangsi Province, ravaged the Lazarist Mission at Jaachow, said dispatches today at Lazarist headquarters here.

Several priests endangered in the raid, which took place in the second week in October, were believed safe, at least until October 14, the date upon which information was dispatched from the affected area about Yang Lake. Father Verdini, an Italian priest, who escaped from Jaachow, sent the news from an unlocated locality.

CONCEALS WHEREABOUTS
Missionaries here believe Verdini is safe, but his communication indicates he is concealing his whereabouts. It is not known what happened to these men since Verdini wrote his message on October 14.

The priests he mentioned were members of the American Vincentian Order.

In the raid upon the Jaachow Mission, said Verdini, the Reds ransacked the school and orphanage, carrying off every article. Verdini further reported that the city of Kiangsi, important Chinese center northeast of Jaachow, fell into the hands of Communists shortly before Jaachow.

Many smaller places in the vicinity were sacked, missions being robbed and burned. The Reds captured some missionaries.

Describing the Jaachow raid, Verdini wrote:

"The Reds, executing a second raid, were seen on October 14."

Mexican Flood Destroys Town; Many Are Dead

TAMPICO, Mexico, Oct. 23.—The commander of the garrison at Alamo, state of Vera Cruz, reached the village of Chapooto, Nueve tonight, and, communicating with military heads here, said that as many as 100 persons may have died in floods at Alamo, and that the town had been practically wiped out.

Thousands of head of cattle were drowned and the corn crop in the district was destroyed.

In the streets the water rose to a level of ten feet, forcing the inhabitants to take refuge on the hilltops while they watched their houses, livestock and belongings swept away by the torrent.

The town of Tuxpan also was reported inundated.

The floods are the result of heavy storms during the last twelve days, which caused great property damage over a wide area.

Dominion's Tariff Protects Britain Declares Stevens

Canadian Minister, in Frank Discussion, States That Customs Provide Measure of Protection From Foreign Competition in This Country—Urges Establishment of Branch Factories

Trade Will Develop With Industries

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, Oct. 23.—In a frank address before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at luncheon today, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, declared if Canada was on a free trade basis he doubted whether Great Britain would sell so many goods in the Dominion, unless British manufacturers grasped their opportunities more vigorously than they do now.

Mr. Stevens said he had often been asked why Canada wanted to extend her industries in competition with Great Britain. He would remind the people here that for a century Great Britain had been sending out skilled workmen to Canada and other places. Would they expect such to remain idle rather than use the skill bequeathed to them in Great Britain? Moreover, there was a great country to the south, highly developed, which was constantly pressing on Canada the question, "Why does not Canada buy more from the Motherland?" Mr. Stevens went on: "I am also asked why does not Canada buy more from the Motherland?" Mr. Stevens went on: "I am also asked why does not Canada buy more from the Motherland?"

URGES FACTORIES
Mr. Stevens explained a very large amount of American capital was invested in Canada and there was an intensive interest in the country by those investors. America had some 1,500 factories in Canada against seventy British plants. Was it not sound business for Great Britain to consider the establishment of more?

Larger development of Canada's industrial life also meant a wider market for certain classes of British goods, he pointed out. Canada's acceptance of Welsh coal, by industrial expansion, could easily be brought to a total of $12,500,000, Mr. Stevens said.

He concluded with a few plain words to Canadian salesmen in Great Britain: "Scrutinize the British rules of business, which are the highest in the world, supply goods strictly to specification and do not complete an order with American goods." He had found these two items were not always observed, he said.

TWO DIE WHEN TUNNEL CAVES IN ON TRAIN

Third Man Is Seriously Injured in Accident Near Steubenville, Ohio

VICTIMS TRAPPED IN SHATTERED CABOOSE

STUEBENVILLE, O., Oct. 23.—Two men lost their lives and a third was injured seriously in the cave-in of a tunnel through which a freight train was passing here today.

The dead are E. E. Dugg, fifty-five, Dillonvale, and Jerry L. Sella, forty, a conductor. The injured trainman was Al Romano, thirty-three, who suffered a crushed hip and a broken arm and leg. Rescue work began immediately in the debris before the men were removed.

The victims were trapped in the train's caboose, which was demolished when it was caught with six freight cars about 300 feet from the end of the tunnel. The cars were pulled from the tunnel by a locomotive.

TO REPRESENT B.C. AT PARLEY

Henry Cathcart Will Act for Province at Resources Conference

Henry Cathcart, Deputy Minister of Lands, will represent British Columbia at the Natural Resources Conference called by Alberta, it was announced by Premier Toimin yesterday.

The gathering will take place this week at Edmonton, and will be participated in by the four Western provinces.

Mr. Cathcart left yesterday for the conference, and will be prepared to discuss any British Columbia issues arising at the gathering. The Deputy Minister of Lands also acted for the province in negotiations leading up to the return of the Peace River Block and the Railway Belt lands, transferred to provincial control in August last.

The conference, Premier Toimin has been informed, will probably deal with common problems in connection with the natural resources returned to the Western provinces, and particularly with the question of original records in the administration of these areas.

The three Prairie provinces will be represented by their premiers.

SEEKING NEW FRUIT-DRYING PLANT FOR B.C.

Hon. W. A. McKenzie Investigating New Dehydration Process

WOULD HELP LABOR IN RURAL CENTRES

Highly Gratifying Results Obtained Under Tests Supervised by British Gov't

Learning, as Minister of Labor, of a new system of fruit and vegetable dehydration recently discovered in England, Hon. W. A. McKenzie is consulting with British Columbia House in London in an effort to learn the details of the process and whether it will be possible to secure the necessary permission, if it is as successful as advice suggests, to apply the method to the treatment of surplus products of British Columbia.

PROVIDE EMPLOYMENT
"In the Okanagan," Mr. McKenzie explained, "as well as in other parts of the province, there is from time to time surplus labor, as well as surplus crops. If, therefore, the new dehydration process reported from England has the merit claimed for it, and British Columbia can obtain from the inventors permission to utilize it here, or interest them in establishing the process in the agricultural centres of British Columbia, it may be of inestimable value in creating employment, as well as in absorbing the products of the soil. To that end I am communicating with our London representative, who will secure all possible data on the subject."

ARMED POSSES SEEK MAN FOR FOUR MURDERS

Three of Wulansky Family and One Neighbor Shot to Death

DETAILS OF SLAYING ON ALBERTA FARM MEAGRE

EDMONTON, Oct. 23.—Armed posses of Alberta Provincial Police are scouring the country to the northeast of the city in an effort to find the slayer of the Wulansky family, three of whom were killed by shots fired from a shotgun at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, while the only surviving member of the family lay at death's door in hospital at Smoky Lake. Another farmer, a neighbor, was also killed at the same time. George Duvernichuk is suspected of the wholesale massacre.

Details of the slaughter are meagre, for the only remaining member of the family, old Mrs. Wulansky, is in the hospital, and Constable McKay, the A.P.P. officer in charge of the district, was en route to Fort Saskatchewan with a prisoner at the time of the killing.

It was stated at the A.P.P. headquarters that an early arrest is not expected, owing to the fact that the murderer had a good knowledge of the country is rough and the roads are bad.

DEADLY BARRAGE
Practically the entire Wulansky family was wiped out by the volley of shot. Father and mother, a daughter and son, went down in the deadly barrage, while the neighbor was also killed.

Wulansky, mother of the slain farmer, is not expected to live. Examination of the bodies showed that all shots were fired at close range.

The suspected slayer may have sought refuge in the city. He was wanted, and had been for the past four years until a few hours before the tragedy.

ORIENT FAVORS DAIRY PRODUCE FROM PROVINCE

British Columbia Butter and Milk Crossed Pacific Successfully

HONGKONG MARKETS TESTED BY SHIPMENT

Recent test shipments of British Columbia butter and fresh milk to the Orient proved a complete success. In so far as the arrival of the products in good condition was concerned, the markets branch of the Department of Agriculture, under the leadership of Mr. J. Riddford, assistant Canadian trade commissioner at Hongkong, in a letter received yesterday.

Marketing difficulties would have to be extended to commercial proportions, Mr. Riddford adds, and goes at length into the facts of the case. The Fraser Valley Milk Producers' cooperative with the Department of Agriculture, shipped 100 pounds of first grade Canadian butter, while an experimental shipment of fresh milk was made by the Brookbank Ltd., Limited, Limited. Both shipments were carried by the Canadian Pacific on Empress liners, making the crossing of the Pacific in fast time.

To the trade commissioner at Hongkong, Mr. Riddford explains that the milk and butter arrived in first class condition, and was found to keep well.

Local difficulties make milk distribution uncertain in Hongkong, and bulk shipments first attempted may be followed by shipments of bottled milk in future. The quality of the milk is superior to any obtainable in the Orient, and the trade shows possibility of development if initial obstacles can be overcome, he believes.

Opportunity for expansion of the butter trade is bright, if competition from other sources can be successfully met. Other trial orders for fresh dairy butter have already been placed, and shipments will follow, it is stated.

FARMERS OF ALBERTA ARE SALVAGING GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 23.—Alberta has fared better than Saskatchewan under the burden of early snows on unthreshed grain lands. According to George H. Williams, president of the Saskatchewan section, United Farmers of Canada, the snowed-in grain in Saskatchewan will not be threshed until Spring. But members of the Alberta Government deny that grain in the Western Prairie province has suffered irreparable damage.

In all probability, Saskatchewan's wheat will lie in the fields until Spring, according to Mr. Williams, though some of the snow-covered oats may dry out sufficiently to be threshed, he mentioned it would be necessary to put it through a drying process, which would not pay.

Great activity in harvesting and marketing is apparent in Alberta, according to cabinet members. They deny that grain has sprouted badly or been injured beyond repair, and point out that harvesting has resumed under warm sun. High grades of wheat, appearing before the recent blizzard, are said to be showing again in the new threshing.

Argentine Trade Pact Repudiated

LONDON, Oct. 23.—British trade with the Argentine is likely to suffer heavily if the Daily Herald cable from Buenos Aires today is authentic. That state's provisional president, Gen. Jose Francisco Uruburu, during an interview, has unqualifiedly repudiated the $80,000,000 trade agreement effected by Lord D'Abernon's British mission with the Argentine.

"The agreement is a private pact between the British mission and the former president," General Uruburu is quoted. "The Republic is not concerned with the matter, which can only be reopened when Congress meets—I do not know when. I should say the whole thing will be put into the archives; you might say it is dead."

Conservatives Contend British Government's Proposals Are a Mistake

PAY HIGH TRIBUTE TO DR. C. WEIZMANN

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Zionist protests at the British Government's Palestine policy are supported by Stanley Baldwin, Sir Austen Chamberlain and L. C. S. Amery, three notable members of the last Conservative Cabinet, in an important letter to The Times today.

"Without giving either Jewish or Arab opinion an opportunity to express itself, or allowing Parliament to be heard," the letter charges, "the Government has laid down a policy so definitely negative in character that it appears to us to be not only with the insistence of the Council of the League of Nations that it would be contrary to the intention of the mandate if the Jewish national home was crystallized at the present stage of development, but with the whole spirit of the Balfour declaration and of the statements made by the successive Governments of the last twelve years."

"FEELING OF DISTRUST"
It is evident that the effect upon the public opinion of American Jewry and elsewhere is the creation of a feeling of distrust in that British good faith, which is the most precious asset of our foreign imperial policy."

The letter praises Dr. Chaim Weizmann for his co-operation with Great Britain, and censures the Government for its failure to comply with his request for a round table conference, which Great Britain could undertake the role of honest broker between the Jews and Arabs in Palestine. By ignoring Dr. Weizmann's proposals, the Government discouraged the efforts of Jewish leaders to promote the good feeling necessary to settlement of the Palestinian problems, the Conservatives claim.

BRITISH EMBASSY AT WARSAW CENTRE OF ZIONIST OUTBREAKS

WARSAW, Oct. 23.—Anti-British demonstrations by Zionist sympathizers protesting against the British statement of policy on Palestine today caused the British Embassy to appeal for protection to the Polish authorities.

The Jewish Telegraph Agency reports sixteen young Zionists, members of the Heichalutz Zionist youth movement, were arrested after demonstrating in front of the British Embassy and the Consulate.

The Polish Government has permitted the holding of a huge protest meeting Saturday night on condition there be no street demonstrations afterward.

GOV'T WILL MAINTAIN AUTHORITY

Brazil Ministry Has Control in Capital and Sao Paulo State

HEAVY RAINS PROVIDE NEW FEDERAL DEFENCE

Administration Will Conserve Food and Supplies in Rio de Janeiro

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 23.—Heavy Spring rains today brought a new defence to the aid of the Federalists, who are opposing revolutionists in the Sao Paulo-Parana sector, scene of the hottest fighting thus far in the Brazilian civil war. At Itarare, around which heavy conflicts have centred for more than a week, the River Parana-Panama has swollen until it provides a natural defence for the Government troops and has halted attempted forays by the Federalists. Itarare is on the lower Parana-Sao Paulo border.

An official statement issued today said the Government continues to maintain its authority in the capital and throughout the state of Sao Paulo. It added that railway communications had not been interrupted over the route between Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro, and that telephone and telegraph services were operating normally. The reference to railroads presumably is in answer to rebel claims that the line connecting Brazil's two greatest cities, the capital and Sao Paulo, had been severed.

HOOPER'S EMBARGO

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 23.—Lindolfo Celorio, Argentine minister of the Interior, today said he believed President Hoover's embargo on arms shipments to the rebels from the United States would only slightly affect progress of the revolution.

He repeated emphatically that all debts currently incurred by the Federal Government for purchase of arms and munitions in the United States would be repudiated by the revolutionary government.

Ontario Sets Aside Big Sum for Section Of National Highway

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—Of the $2,000,000 which will be spent in Northern Ontario for unemployment relief, a considerable sum will be devoted to construction of a link in the Transcanada Highway between North Bay and Pembroke and west of Port Arthur to the Manitoba boundary. It was stated today by Hon. George S. Henry, Acting Prime Minister, following a meeting of Cabinet council.

FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT
MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—Maurice J. Gully today by a jury in the court of King's Bench of a charge of theft in connection with $250,000 in money and securities entrusted to him by clients.

Emergency Works Are Authorized in Five B.C. Centres

Work programmes estimated to cost $644,750 were legally initiated in the province yesterday. Premier Toimin signing, on behalf of the Federal and Provincial Governments, agreements totaling half of that amount, or $322,375.

Of this sum the Provincial Government will pay up to $161,187 if the works laid out were carried out. Other agreements are pending. The Federal Government, out of the $500,000 set aside for work in British Columbia, will bear a share equal to that of the Province.

Ratification, after prior signature, by municipal officers, was given yesterday to the following agreements, with their respective amounts being half the total cost of the work proposed in each case: Vancouver City, $200,225; Oak Bay, $3,400; Saanich, $15,000; North Cowichan, $3,750; and Surrey, $10,000.

The Provincial Government will bear half the cost of the amount shown in the agreement, or quarter 3.75, and this figure is decreasing.

Each agreement contains the requisite clause dealing with fair wages, and the inception of an eight-hour day on all work carried out under the plan. Work listed in the agreements were approved by Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works, and F. E. Harrison, Minister of Agriculture.

By late last evening forty-eight municipalities and districts had filed their plans with the Government, and agreements for signature were on the way back to a number of these. Peachland, Spallumcheen, Summerland, Terrace, Vanderhoof, Port Moody, Williams Lake and Salmon Arm sent proposals in for approval, while North Cowichan, Oak Bay and Saanich returned their agreements signed, and these three were approved and signed by the Government before the day ended.

Tabulation of all districts reporting under the plan shows on October 1 the percentage of those out of work in British Columbia was 3.78, and this figure is decreasing.

PRESIDENT IS CONVERTED TO CHRISTIANITY

Chiang Kai-Shek, Head of Republic, Baptized at Shanghai

ONLY FEW INTIMATES ATTEND CEREMONIES

CHIANG KAI-SHEK

SHANGHAI, Oct. 23.—President Chiang Kai-Shek of China, has been converted to Christianity.

Appearing unexpectedly in Shanghai late today, the generalissimo went to the home of his mother-in-law, Madame K. T. Soong, and was baptized into the Christian faith by sprinkling, according to the rites of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The ceremony was performed by a Chinese pastor, Rev. S. T. Kuang, a graduate of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Mission University at Soochow. The mission's headquarters is at Nashville, Tenn. To the pastor Chiang explained his action in these words:

"I feel the need of a God such as Jesus Christ."

CAME AS SURPRISE
The President's conversion and baptism came as a distinct surprise to Shanghai. Only a few intimates, mostly relatives, attended to ceremonies after the chief executive came suddenly from the capital at Nanking.

Christian circles heralded the baptism with great joy and said it struck a blow at Communism. Communists have been directing attacks at foreigners recently and particularly at Christians as being representative of foreigners.

Pastor Kuang said he did not expect Chiang to take an active part in church affairs, as he is too busy with Government duties, but that "he and the spirit of Jesus Christ within him will go 'marching on'."

INFLUENCE OF RELATIVES

The President's conversion is believed to have been due to the influence of relatives and close associates. His wife, the former Meiling Soong, and Madame Soong, her mother, have been devout Christians for years, as have other members of the influential Soong family.

The late Dr. Sun Yat-Sen was a Christian and had a Christian funeral. Another witness of his conversion was when he was baptized, when he was converted some years ago he became known as "the Christian general." He had the entire army baptized. Later he is said to have renounced his faith under the influence of Bolshevism.

appoint a commission to administer the fund and also that the commission be given powers to borrow money on debenture, sinking fund and interest to be taken care of by the Provincial annual grant. The beautification scheme would cover a period of years and the total amount expended may reach $250,000 in the first year of the period.

The application of unemployment fund money is being made with a view of undertaking immediate work on the scheme. If such a grant is to be made it would necessarily be a Provincial Government grant in which the municipality would not be asked to contribute on a pro rata basis. Any undertaking would be as a Provincial objective and might be applied to any of the works contemplated by the beautification committee on Government properties.

PROPERTY EXCHANGE

With regard to the exchange of properties the City Council has made a number of unsuccessful attempts to have the Department of National Defence return the old Clover Point rifle range property to the city. The property is situated on the Dallas Road and close to Beacon Hill Park and is waterfront property. The Department of National Defence is anxious to acquire the Albert Head reserve consisting of approximately 160 acres of waterfront. The Provincial Government has always maintained its desire to reserve the Albert Head property.

PROPOSED WORK

The committee has fully considered the wishes of the Provincial Government in connection with the Albert Head location, but it is the impression that the Government in securing the rifle range property would have a property equally as suitable for park purposes.

One of the schemes advanced at the meeting yesterday afternoon was to construct a twenty-foot-wide board walk fronting Beacon Hill Park along the shore. If this was adopted the committee might consider further beautification of the Marine Drive by the planting of additional shrubbery and the location of amusement centers.

PREMIER MOWINCKEL MAY RETAIN OFFICE

No Radical Reform Legislation Is Anticipated in Norway

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 23.—Premier Johan Mowinkel probably will continue as Norwegian Prime Minister when the new Storting opens its sessions early in the new year.

He will have with him probably his entire present Radical cabinet, given a new lease on life by Monday's Parliamentary elections which returned thirty-four Radicals to the Storting.

The cabinet will have some of its policies changed, however. One of the planks of the Radical election platform was anti-Labor legislation, so that it now must stand on its own feet without Labor in the coalition. Since the Conservatives were greatly increased in the election, no radical reform legislation is expected.

The new Storting will have: Laborists, 47; Conservatives, 44; Peasant Party, 25; Radicals, 34.

"Our wonderful library was seventy years' old. The Reds destroyed the books, burning them three days and nights.

"The raiders occupied our property, destroying everything except, curiously, the church building was not burned. They occupied the orphanage, however. Days before the raid, the children were distributed throughout the countryside.

"The looting went on generally, the Reds distributing properties of the rich among the poor. This is their first act in every raid, the act constituting sufficient proof among ignorant people of the limitless benefits of Communism.

BOUNDLESS LOOT

"These poor are satisfied for the day, while the bandits collect boundless loot and are off after a few days for another town or city, leaving the ignorant poor helpless, if not slain.

"Townpeople gave the looters $20,000, but this failed to soothe their greed. All clothing and everything within the shops were stolen. Bootloads of chinaware and silk were stolen and destroyed.

"Continuing, Father Vincent wrote: "It is becoming more Red terror daily. Moore, Meyer and myself escaped aboard a junk on Pyang Lake yesterday. Pray for us here, as it is no safe place.

"Similar conditions exist at Kington, where the Communists have occupied the place thirteen days. Preceding their arrival, soldiers fled, leaving the city helpless.

"FLEE TO COUNTRYSIDE
"Flight out of every ten residents here have fled to the countryside, while those remaining have turned robbers or Reds. Looting continues daily, thieves taking into the country seventy to eighty wheelbarrow loads of loot each day.

Indication of conditions in Kanchow, Southern Kiangsi, which long has been opposing Communist attacks to capture the city, was received with receipt at Lazaret headquarters of a letter from Bishop Evelyn Holt, a priest of the city, dated October 10. In it the bishop said:

"Things are very uncertain, as the Reds continue to control this area. We are dreadful things happened at Kian, but we are unable to verify anything."

The majority of Lazaret representatives at Kanchow left the besieged city. Others remained, despite the warnings of his superiors that he depart.

MINISTER HAS HARD PROBLEM IN EDUCATION

Hon. J. Hinchliffe Asks at What Point Government Responsibility Ends

OLD LAND IS TRYING SELECTIVE METHOD

The outstanding problem which confronts the Government today in respect of education is that of deciding at what point a Government's responsibility ends, maintained the Hon. J. Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, in the course of the very thoughtful address which he gave at Victoria College last night, under the auspices of the New Education Fellowship. His discourse, which took the form of an exploratory examination of some of the methods adopted here and elsewhere toward a solution of this problem, evoked great interest, as evidenced in the many questions asked and comments made at the close of the evening.

The subject was "Some Educational Problems and the Efforts Which Are Being Made to Solve Them." E. C. Nicholas, chairman of the Victoria branch of the fellowship, presided, and Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., moved the vote of thanks, expressing great appreciation of the frank manner in which the subject had been attacked.

"In respect of education there is a definite time when the Government's responsibility begins; there should be a definite time when the Government's responsibility ends," Mr. Hinchliffe maintained early in his discourse, after previously having announced that he had no definitely formed conclusions to offer toward the solution of this question of responsibility, which was the great problem of the moment.

The present system was admittedly imperfect, but those in charge of education had to strike a via media between the demands of the utilitarians and those who wanted education to be along purely cultural lines.

Considered in the strictest sense, education was a thing which began at birth and ended only with death. Therefore the problem arose as to what part of this life-long proceeding the Government should assume responsibility. In this province the Government's responsibility began when the child was six, and ended, in ordinary circumstances, when the child reached sixteen. This was the application of the age-limit method of defining a Government's responsibility. Other methods were on the basis of achievement, a "no-limit" basis, and the selective basis. The advantages and disadvantages of each of these were discussed by the minister, with innumerable instances of opinion in favor of the selective, which he had seen in operation in England and Scotland during his visit there recently, and which, he had since learned, was employed in New Zealand.

Under the "achievement" system the Government carried the responsibility for the child's education only up to a certain standard, after which time the student carried on his education at his own expense. Advocates could be found both for and against this, many maintaining that the Government's responsibility should cease even when the student entered high school, while another group favored Government responsibility continuing until matriculation.

In British Columbia the idea was becoming more prevalent that there should be no limit by age or achievement to the point to which the Government would undertake responsibility in education.

SELECTIVE METHOD

Mr. Hinchliffe dwelt at some length on the evidence in favor of some selective method of determining the limit to which students should be carried by the Government. In Edinburgh last Summer he had attended a prize-giving and had been struck by the number of scholarships given by the Government. These scholarships entitled the holder to another year's free tuition in the school, whereas other pupils would have to pay. In addition to these scholarships, bursaries were given, amounting to as much as $400 a year, toward continued education. In England a similar system prevailed, worthy students even being carried right up to the university and still farther. This made it possible for brilliant students from the poorest families to compete on equal terms with students from the wealthiest classes, those who attained university being given an allowance which allowed them to share in all the privileges of university life. In many instances such students were outstripping those who were able to pay their way through college.

NEW ZEALAND METHOD

Returning from the Old Country, Mr. Hinchliffe had traveled with the Premier of New Zealand, who had told him a similar system of selective scholarship was in vogue in the sister Dominion, with the additional advantage that they had a pass standard, and a scholarship standard, entitling the larger number of students to go forward than in the Old Country, where the scholarships were more limited by competitive examination.

How would such a system work in British Columbia? In Scotland every boy and girl was entitled to all the education he could imbibe, "with the reasonable hope that after he had it he would use it to the benefit of the community." In Western Canada, on the contrary, the idea was becoming prevalent that every student was entitled to all the education he thought he was entitled to. One of the cruelties of the system now in practice in British Columbia was that students who felt slightly short of the required standards were often promoted from class to class, and from high school to university, only to find, on reaching the latter, that they were of no use academically. It would have been kinder to discourage such students before they reached the university, and while they were still young enough to direct their studies along nonacademic lines. It was obviously impossible to make "extra

LOGGERS TO RESUME BUSINESS SESSIONS

Delegates to the twenty-first annual Pacific Logging Congress, which arrived in the city yesterday, are on a cruise of the East Coast of Vancouver Island aboard the steamer Princess Elizabeth, are scheduled to return to Victoria early tomorrow.

At 9 o'clock the delegates will assemble in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel to resume business sessions. The programme consists of papers on logging operations and general and camp problems. At the conclusion of business the delegates will attend a banquet at which Premier S. F. Tolmie will be the principal speaker. Guests will include Hon. Neil Lougheed, Minister of Public Works, Hon. F. Burden, Minister of Lands, and Mayor Herbert Anson. Lewis Mills, president of the congress, will preside.

AGRICULTURISTS WILL MEET IN CITY TODAY

Dr. W. T. Macoun, Dominion horticulturist in charge of experimental work, arrived in the city yesterday, accompanied by Howard L. Trueman, secretary to the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists. Both will attend a meeting of agriculturists called for this morning at the Parliament Buildings under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture.

As president of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists, Dr. Macoun addressed a meeting of horticulturists at Sidney last evening, and also visited the Dominion Experimental Farm at Bagan Bay. He is a son of the late Dr. John Macoun, and has recently been presented with the degree of doctor of science by Acadia University.

Mr. Trueman is editor of The Scientific Agriculturist, a well known publication.

INTERNATIONAL BANKING FORMS SPEECH TOPIC

J. R. Scooby Gives Interesting
Address at Luncheon of Rotary Club

NEW CONCEPTION OF MONEY IS ADVANCED

"International Finance" was the subject of an illuminating address given at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club by J. R.
Scooby.

Mr. Scooby began his address by a definition of the term "money," which he described as "an easily portable medium of exchange applicable to goods or services."

Gold had been chosen as the basis on which to build the monetary system because it was a precious metal, which was neither too scarce nor too common for the purpose, but struck a happy medium between the two extremes.

Tracing the history of international banking from its origin, the speaker noted that in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries a beginning had been made in such international fairs as existed at Genoa, Florence, Venice and Stour Bridge. Hundreds of thousands of merchants from all over the world had brought their goods to these fair centres for exchange.

SANCTITY OF CONTRACTS
The sanctity of contracts had first been established at these fairs, which had given birth to the money changers and foreign bankers, and where it became the custom for those who could not make immediate settlements to give bills and promises to pay at some future date.

When gold was scarce, continued the speaker, prices were low and goods were cheaper than when gold, the medium of exchange, was more plentiful. "This situation becomes obvious," said Mr. Scooby, "when you realize that a twenty-dollar gold piece is nothing more than a medium of exchange. It is essential that, in dealing with international problems, we should get away from our stereotyped conception of money and money values."

SUPPLY AND DEMAND
The speaker told his hearers that it was very unlikely that the supply of gold would keep pace with the

Italy has been announced, presenting a new banner to the non-commissioned officers in the Sofia Stadium on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the Bulgarian Army's reconstruction.

demand of an ever-increasing world population. "A gold mine was a wasting asset and, given a stationary supply of gold and an increasing world population, prices would continue to fall with all the consequences to trade and employment which such a process involved."

A recently established organization which would probably go far to stabilizing the situation was the International Bank of Settlement, with headquarters in Switzerland.
The time might come when it would be possible to transfer a universal money unit to any part of the world through the agency of this bank.

TRIP TO SALT SPRING
President M. W. J. Bruce addressed the members regarding a proposed trip to Salt Spring Island on November 1. Members, he said, would take advantage of the newly established ferry from Sidney, which had filled a need that was essential from both business and friendly points of view.

Alfred Carmichael called for volunteers to represent the Service Club Council in a debate on November 26, when a British team would take the negative to a resolution that "This House Favors a Tax on Bachelors." An elimination contest between various clubs and societies

GREEK PREMIER WILL PAY VISIT TO TURKEY

Venizelos Will Place Signature to Treaties of Commerce and Friendship on Trip

PREMIER VENIZELOS

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 23.—
Plans of the Turkish Government for the visit of the Greek Premier Eleutherios Venizelos today stood completed. Venizelos will arrive on Saturday.

The Turkish Government has solved the delicate problem of where its one-time greatest enemy should land. Smyrna was rejected because of its dark memories. Ismet was eliminated because of its naval zone where a Greek destroyer would not be welcome. Istanbul was considered an unwise choice because of the possibility that its thousands of Greek residents might be too bolderous in their welcome, and the necessity devolving upon the visitor to make an official call on the patriarch.

It was finally decided that the Greek guest would slip into Haidi Pasha, an Asiatic suburb of Istanbul, where a special train will take him to Angora across territory where his armies fought valiantly for their dream of a greater Hellenic eight years ago.

TO REVIEW SOLDIERS
The visit of Premier Venizelos will extend to the seventh birthday of the Turkish Republic on October 29, in the celebration of that event he will stand beside President Mustapha Kemal and review a parade of soldiers, many of whom helped to drive into the sea the Greek forces at Smyrna in 1922. The presence of Venizelos at the Turkish independence jubilee echoes to the participation of the Turkish Ambassador at Athens in Greece's celebration of her centenary of freedom from Turkish rule.

Turco-Greek negotiations at Angora are being speeded up so that treaties of commerce and friendship will be ready for Venizelos' signature during his visit.

NORTH VANCOUVER BY-ELECTION

The North Vancouver by-election is to be held on November 5 and it will afford the first real test of the present Provincial Government's popularity since it assumed office. The Liberals won the seat at the last general election, but only by a slim majority, and there are good reasons for believing that the Conservatives will reverse the verdict next Wednesday week.

In North Vancouver the local issue will be the future of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. For nearly a decade the Liberals, while in power, did practically nothing to forward the fortunes of this road. They adopted a policy of marking time, apparently being willing neither to dispose of the railway nor complete it themselves as originally planned. Since the Conservatives secured power they have bent their efforts towards inducing one or other of the transcontinental railway companies to take over the provincial road and complete it to Prince George and from Squamish to North Vancouver, with the further undertaking that it will be carried into the Peace River country and thus give the products of that great area an outlet via the Pacific Coast.

In a statement Dr. Tolmie shows that, following the investigation of the natural resources of the land the P.G.E. traverses, undertaken by the Government and the transcontinental railway companies, there are excellent hopes of the problem being solved. This is tantamount to expressing the belief that one or other, or both, of the transcontinental railway companies may take over the road as an auxiliary for the development of British Columbia. It is quite obvious that every avenue should be exhausted to secure such a desirable outcome before the Provincial Government undertakes any further construction. This is a viewpoint which should commend itself to the people of North Vancouver.

The by-election thus will have a reflex action on all the people of the province served by the P.G.E., and even on a larger population, since Mainland interests as a whole regard the Peace River trade as of the highest importance to the development of Pacific Coast ports. Premier Tolmie has adopted a course which is one of safety. If the province can relieve itself of the burden of railway ownership so much the better for its finances. If it can induce one of the transcontinental railway companies to take over the P.G.E. there will be assurance of development on a large scale. These are the aspects of the case which should commend themselves to the voters of North Vancouver. Premier Tolmie can rest happy in the policy he has presented for their consideration. His view of the problem, with the hopes for solution that prevail, is in the best interests of the province as a whole.

PREFERENCES OR IMPORT BOARDS

The late Mr. Joseph Chamberlain once said that three years of bad trade would drive Britain to a policy of protection. He underestimated the hold that the Cobden fetish has had upon the people of Great Britain. That country has now suffered from nine years of bad trade and it is just beginning to awaken in a wide sense to the folly of the policy it has been pursuing. The current carrying public opinion away from the Cobdenite doctrine has been a slow one. As it increases in volume, however, the tide grows stronger.

Recently prominent English barons issued a manifesto in favor of protective tariffs. More recently still the General Council of the Trade Union Congress abandoned its traditional position on Free Trade. It advocated a closer economic union within the Empire, and, in effect, if not in actual words, it gave a re-endorsement to the policy enunciated by Mr. R. B. Bennett at the Imperial Conference. It asked for the creation of an economic council representing the whole Empire.

Mr. H. N. Brailsford, a well known "ritler on economic subjects, says that the younger generation in Great Britain is thinking of industry as an organization, "whose growth and functions are regulated by certain key services of trades, which control it much as the ductless glands control the body." There is an element in the Labor Party which wishes the State to seize these key services, believing that the consumer would gain through the economy of large handling, centralized buying and insurance, coordinated transport, and storage. There is an unlinking of this policy contained in the suggestion of import boards now being mooted. Some sections of the British Labor Government regard import boards as a new instalment in the putting into effect of Socialism.

In fiscal matters, while Socialism is the aim of the Laborites, there is fluidity in opinion and an obvious breaking with the traditions of Free Trade. On the whole, however, Labor remains opposed to tariffs, but at a time when the rest of Great Britain, with the exception of the out-and-out Free Traders, is turning more and more to the Chamberlain conception. No doubt public opinion in Great Britain has been influenced by the outright stand taken by Mr. R. B. Bennett at the Imperial Conference. Were a Conservative Government in power at Westminster there would have been whole-hearted official recognition given to the Bennett pronouncement. This is significant because the Conservative Party is the largest in British politics, and, according to all indications, will regain the reins of power whenever another election is held.

The fight before the Imperial Conference in the effort to promote greater economic solidarity within the Empire will be between the Socialistic principle of import boards and the policy of mutual preferences proposed by Mr. Bennett. The former is a system which would have peculiar reference to British purchases from the rest of the Empire. It is one that will not be heartily approved by the Overseas Dominions. There is no economic reason why it should be embraced. On the other hand, the Bennett proposal would mean co-operation all round. It is the one plan in relation to intra-

Empire trade development that has true Imperial significance. The Socialistic proposal for import boards could be regarded as a challenge to the manner in which the rest of the world is conducting its trade. As to Imperial preferences what is done in this regard is the business of the British Empire. In this Dominion, at least, the hope will be general that Mr. Bennett will not weaken in his attitude. He has a growing tide of public opinion in Great Britain on his side. The Labor Government there does not represent the majority viewpoint of the country and it never has represented it since its advent to power.

THE WOOLLEN INDUSTRY

Premier Tolmie is carrying out his pre-election promises of doing everything in his power to forward industrial development in British Columbia. His latest move to lay before British woolen manufacturers the advantages possessed by this province for the establishment of such enterprises here is one which, in view of conditions in the Old Country, may prove beneficial to our industrial growth. The lack of protection in Great Britain is being felt more and more by industrial undertakings there. The woolen industry has been an especially heavy sufferer from this fact, and from the increasing taxation under the Labor Government. Already two or more woolen manufacturers of Yorkshire have determined to move their plants to Canada, and in one case a site for the enterprise has been selected in Ontario.

Owing to the protective tariffs that prevail the success of the enterprise seems likely to be assured. Where one firm succeeds others are likely to follow and Premier Tolmie is showing wisdom in seizing upon the possibilities that exist. He is placing the Agent-General in London in possession of full particulars relating to conditions here. Not only is there the opportunity for woolen manufacturers but also for the sheep-raising industry on a great scale. That industry in the last few years has been giving evidences of growth. The flocks in British Columbia have increased from 130,000 to 205,000 and the wool clip in value from $168,161 to $244,167. This is a matter for congratulation, coupled with it is the knowledge that conditions in British Columbia are such that millions of sheep could be maintained profitably and the industry made a source of great wealth to the province.

Dr. Tolmie realizes all this. Again and again he has sought to arouse enterprise in the development of the industry. His efforts along this line are emphasized by the manner in which he is now seeking to interest woolen manufacturers in establishing here. British Columbia could support enough sheep to supply an immense manufacturing industry with all the wool it requires. Moreover, there could be a surplus of the product for export to such countries as Japan, where the demand is great and increasing. The province, too, could become self-supporting in the matter of mutton and supply the Prairie Provinces with the product. These are goals that should be kept well in view. With the interest which Dr. Tolmie is manifesting no doubt he will win the means to promote legislation that will insure to the development of the sheep industry, and, coincidentally, induce woolen manufacturers to locate near the source of the local supply of wool as soon and perhaps before that supply is adequate enough to meet all requirements.

The new planet Pluto was observed from the Vienna University Observatory by Professor Grass on September 20. This planet was discovered in March last by Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Arizona. It is located only through a telescope as a tiny star on the extreme border of visibility. Observers now say that the brightness of the planet corresponds with that of a star 14.9 only. From this it is inferred that Pluto either is about as large as Mars, or it corresponds in dimensions to the gigantic outer members of the solar system, such as Uranus or Neptune, "but in contradistinction to these planets it presents a much darker surface." Its discovery hints at the possibility of other planets of the same physical character being located at the extreme borders of the solar system.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Pair trousers man's imperial robe emanate And beauty draws us with a single hair.

Nearly all the great poets are in agreement upon the ever-fascinating subject of women. And surely the judgment of the poets is worthy of respect, for most of them had a good deal to do with and a vast experience with the ladies. Byron, with a figure and face like a Greek god, and Pope, with a form almost as misshapen as his mind, wrote verses about the vagaries of women. The philosophers have joined with the poets in declaring that the disposition of women has never changed all through the ages. Our own experience with women has been limited (thanks be unto the Good God, as our old friend Mike used to say), but that experience has been sufficient to teach us that it is the chief part of wisdom never to enter into a controversy with woman and the supreme part of wisdom never to contradict a woman.

A few days ago, in a moment of absent-mindedness, in the course of a conversation with a clever and amiable woman, the subject of discourse was the long hair women used to wear and the long skirts women also used to wear. We were so indiscreet as to declare in the course of the conversation we were careful to guard against becoming a controversy that while the long skirt might never come back, the long hair was almost sure to come back. The clever and amiable lady was quite sure that the long hair never would come back. We buttressed our declaration by quoting something we had read in a very interesting book about the style of wearing the hair in French fashionable circles towards the end of the seventeenth century. A famous beauty, who wielded a great deal of influence at the court of Napoleon, and who was famous for other things besides her attractions of mind and person, had her hair bobbed. We do not know whether this famous beauty set the fashion for wearing hair as well as for other things, but there is no doubt that the ladies of the celebrated court all wore their hair short.

From those premises we argued that the future of the bobbed hair cut depended absolutely upon the vagaries of some particular woman; that if some woman prominent in position and noted for her beauty appeared in a modern court (say at the British court) wearing long hair, all the women in the world within the realm of fashion would be wearing their hair long almost immediately—that the women would be wearing their hair long despite the objections of nature, for if there were not time for the hair to grow long they would all be wearing wigs.

Our clever and amiable friend (you will notice that we have been very careful to avoid any suggestion as to her age) of course scoffed at this declaration. She said that bobbed hair was here to stay for many reasons, one of the reasons being that germs of all diseases found a comfortable abiding and distributing place in that discredited "crown of glory" and that short hair saved time and expense because it did not require such unremitting attention as long hair. We hinted that possibly the barbers in their shops could give some valuable and convincing data upon these points.

But the lady was just as firm in her position as she was in the beginning of her conversation, so we told her a story, or rather, we repeated part of a story we had read so many years ago that we are not quite sure about the name of the author. We believe the tale was told by Thomas Hardy, for it was a story which did not end happily. At any rate, the story was written during the era of long hair and long skirts. The character in the book which made the greatest impression upon our immature mind was a rich, vain and ambitious woman who was getting along in years and whose face was beginning to display signs of the inevitable effects of time. This lady was anxious to retain the charms of youth and to attract the attention of men. Long and luxurious hair was not to be despised in those days as it is in these days. It was considered something of a theatrical notice to describe as an added attraction. The hair of the ambitious lady must have been getting thin and straggly, for she went to the barber and had it cut off and replaced by a wig made from the hair of a young but poor girl who was persuaded to part with her natural heritage of glorious locks for what appeared to be a handsome figure. Art and artifice met with a temporary reward, but the ultimate result was tragic. An illicit love affair ended with the discovery that the added attraction of a crown of glory was merely a wig.

OUTLINES PLAN FOR OBTAINING ENERGY OF SEA

French Inventor Tells Scientists of Experiment in Creating Power

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Georges Claude, famous French inventor of the commercial process of liquefying air and of the Neon light, defended the practicability of his new process of obtaining power by utilizing the differences between the temperatures of water at the surface and at lower depths of the sea, before an audience of engineers and scientists last night at a meeting here of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

M. Claude has just come to the United States from Cuba, where on October 6 he succeeded in lighting forty light bulbs of 500 candlepower each with power obtained from his revolutionary apparatus.

TASK OF TOMORROW
 Not only was his plan practicable, he declared, but it opened to mankind a vast untouched reservoir of energy. His process was equivalent, he asserted, to harnessing a cataract of tropical seas 300 feet high, falling for ever in unlimited volume. Such a cataract would be inconceivably greater than any source of water-power in the world.

"Without belittling the difficulties that remain to be solved," he went on, "I affirm my faith in the realization of admirable plants running ceaselessly from the beginning to the end of the year, without being hampered by the scarcity of water, falls or vagaries in the cost of coal. And I hold that all this is not the task of a remote future, but of tomorrow."

THE GIFTS OF LOVE
 These are the gifts of love:
 Love is the gift for the Earth.
 More trust in Heaven above,
 More tenderness, more mirth.
 Love comes with laden hands
 Bringing us priceless things,
 A heart that understands,
 A faith that soars and sings.
 Love has no doubts or fears
 To mar its joys complete,
 No fierce distrust that sears,
 True are its thoughts, and sweet.

These are the gifts of love:
 Clear looks and honest praise,
 And tranquil hours that prove
 How blessed are love's ways!

OAK BAY'S FIRE PROTECTION

Sir.—The action of the City Council in hesitating to accept $11,500 from Oak Bay for fire protection looks to me as if the city is refusing some mighty easy money. In fact, Oak Bay would be wise, and money ahead, by cancelling the proposition to invest that $11,500 in modern equipment of its own. As stated by one alderman at the last meeting of the council, the city's machinery is somewhat obsolete. The bulk of Victoria's fire-fighting appliances are quite considerably aged, dating back to 1910. No wonder the Oak Bay fire generally ended in a total loss.

Another alderman at the same meeting demanded a showdown with direct claims. Also Mayor Ansonby stated that if Oak Bay decided to maintain its own fire equipment Victoria would still have to keep up the direct claims. Therefore, this $11,500, which it is presumed Oak Bay will pay, looks to me like velvet for the city. If the City Council can get it and doesn't like it, its sanity should be investigated.

President Trujillo Tells Of Programme for Relief Work in Storm-Swept City

By JULIAN F. HAAS
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Service.)
SANTO DOMINGO, Oct. 23.—Speedy erection of modern quarters to house the thousands who lost their homes in the hurricane, September 3, and complete rehabilitation tion of the Government buildings and other institutions which suffered tremendous damage, were outlined today by President Rafael Leonidas Trujillo to The Chicago Daily News correspondent. President Trujillo, who had been installed in office less than a month before the disaster, has been averaging sixteen hours a day at his desk, personally directing most of the relief work, visiting stricken areas and personally seeing that the needy are cared for. He appeared tired, but interrupted his correspondence to answer questions about the relief work. Through a window of his office one can see a vast stretch in ruins across the Ozama River, where Columbus established the old city.

SIZE OF THE LOAN
"Our relief plans depend upon the size of the loan we are able to secure," President Trujillo said. "First, I would like to build a modern concrete workers' settlement on the edge of the city with playgrounds, hospital and other modern conveniences. Then I would like to lend out money in small quantities to the needy at a small interest rate to help them build their own homes."

President Trujillo explained what repairs and improvements he wanted to make on public buildings, but emphasized the importance of first assisting those who lost all their possessions in the disaster. He also told how he was personally granting loans and assuring payment to creditors. The number of families receiving such loans now number almost 1,000, he said.

RED CROSS ACTIVE
Combining an inspection trip with exercise, President Trujillo yesterday afternoon, with two aides, rode on horseback through the devastated areas. In the business section and elsewhere people waved to him and shouted greetings. The Red Cross still continues its relief work, while an orphanage and an old people's home have been opened and all the schools report a large attendance. Less than 1,000 patients are still at the hospitals. Dominican life is resuming normalcy.

Try This for Seven Days for Eczema

Thousands of people who suffer from itching skin, Eczema and unsightly eruptions will be glad to know that Moore's Emerald Oil, the clean, powerful, penetrating, and septic oil, will banish their trouble in seven days or less.

For years they have been using ointments and salves and, while they helped to relieve the itching, soreness and pain, they often choked the pores and did not allow the poisonous matter to escape. Moore's Emerald Oil overcomes this objection, for the oil penetrates down through the pores and leaves them free to discharge all poisonous secretions. It is highly concentrated, and only a few drops are required at an application. You can get it at MacFarlane Drug Co., Owl Drug Stores, or any progressive drugist, and if it doesn't end your trouble in seven days, money back. (Adv.)

LEGHORN HENS WIN IN LAYING COMPETITIONS

Year's Test at Experimental Station Has Just Been Concluded

GOOD AVERAGE WAS MAINTAINED BY PENS

The results of the seventh egg-laying contest which has been conducted at the Vancouver Island Experimental Station, at Buxton Bay, establishes an enviable reputation for the Vancouver Island district in point of general production of eggs. The performance also manifests an evenness of production and average egg weight by the individual hens of the different breeds under test.

The results of the year's test, which concluded yesterday afternoon, shows that the single combed White Leghorns carried off the records in laying. The high records by pens, all in the Leghorn class, were as follows:

1. J. J. Dougan, Cobble Hill, 2,428 eggs; 2,660 points.
2. A. E. Plaxton, Holland Avenue, Victoria, 2,223 eggs; 2,528 points.
3. C. G. Golding, Quamichan, 2,331 eggs; 2,509 points.

HOW BREEDS COMPARED

The high pens by breeds stood as follows:

White Leghorn, highest bird of all breeds, in Vancouver Island Egg-Laying Contest, 1929-30.
1. J. J. Dougan, White Leghorns, 2,428 eggs; 2,660 points.
2. Experimental Station, White Wyandottes, 2,299 eggs; 2,430 points.
3. Cooke & Mercer, Ladyamith, Rhode Island Reds, 2,027 eggs; 2,222 points.
4. C. G. Golding, Barred Plymouth Rocks, 2,256 eggs; 2,207 points.

OBJECTS OF TESTS

These contests are held through-out Canada for the purpose of carrying into effect the actual registration of poultry under the auspices of the Canadian National Poultry Convention, by the direction of the Canada Livestock Record Association. At the experimental station the contest is carried out under the management of the superintendent, E. M. Straight, B.S.A., and his associates and assistants.

During the past fifty-one weeks the contest has been in progress.

LOCAL BIRDS DID WELL

Mr. Plaxton of this city has the distinction of registering eleven of the original twelve pens entered in the contest. His full pen of the original twelve sent to the contest are in excellent condition and will be returned to him with no mortality occurring in the fifty-one weeks of the contest.

Those in charge point to the fact that the contest had been an excellent one. While there have been no spectacular birds, the advantages of the registration is brought forcibly home, when the evenness of production and average weights are compared. It proved the advantage of the system of breeding and mating followed.

Further details will be compiled in connection with the contest and will be published later.

The absolutely autonomous position of the individual local women's institutes, in so far as their relations with the provincial board were concerned, was emphasized by Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, provincial superintendent, in the course of a statement which she made at the annual district conference here yesterday afternoon. The provincial board had no power whatever over the institutes, she stated.

There were now in British Columbia, the speaker stated, 139 institutes, and each institute of not less than ten members was eligible for financial assistance from the Government per capita grant, such grant to be made direct or in such manner as the Government deemed advisable.

"Institutions are educational rather than fund-raising," the speaker maintained elsewhere, citing the testimony to this effect given by Dr. H. E. Young, Provincial Board of Health; L. F. Chapman, of the British Columbia Products Bureau, and D. D. Sutton, of the health, child welfare, industries, historical research, community betterment, and education and better schools.

"No institutes in Canada have such fine co-operation from the Government as ours in British Columbia," the speaker stated.

Among the more recently organized institutes were the four in Central British Columbia; one at Port Moody, one at Golden, Oyster Bay, one at recently interviewed, Sir Henry Thornton and Colonel Hiam with a view to discovering if the railways could do anything in

Ball to Be Held Aboard Palatial C.P.R. Liner

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—The newest and largest liner on the Pacific Coast, the Canadian Pacific's huge white Empress of Japan, now on her second visit in her home port, lies at Pier "B" here, groomed and immaculate for the outstanding social event of the season, the ball to be held aboard her tomorrow night by Triple Entente Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Today not a ticket was available for this outstanding social function, and modistes, flower shops and beauty parlors were flooded with last-minute orders and applications.

His Honor R. Randolph Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor, his niece and chaperone, Miss Margaret Bruce Mackenzie, with the Lady Rosalind Northcote, their guest at Government House, are coming across the Gulf from Victoria to lend their presence to a guest list of more than 350 persons. They will be guests prior to the function at a dinner party planned in their honor by His Worship Mayor W. H.

Y.W.C.A. Work
Is Described by Visitor Here

Following an informal luncheon tendered them by the directorate of the Y.W.C.A., yesterday, Mrs. Percival Foster and Miss Winifred Hutchison, officers of the national Y.W.C.A. headquarters at Toronto, held an interesting conference with the members in which work of the various branches of the organization was thoroughly reviewed.

Mrs. Foster, who is field secretary for the Y.W.C.A. in the West, speaking on "Leadership Within the Organization," stressed the importance of the responsibilities of board members for carrying out those purposes for which the Y.W.C.A. was ordained. Chief of these aims, she said, was to create a real "home from home." Brief reference was made to duty of the association to take its part in the social life of the community.

Reference was made to the establishment of the world's Y.W.C.A. headquarters at 2 Rue Daniel Colladon, Geneva. The president of the world's association, Miss van Asch van Wyck, a member of the nobility of Holland, was described by the speaker as an international stateswoman, an accomplished linguist, and an intensely charming personality. She succeeded such other noted women as Lady Palmer and Hon. Mrs. Montague Waldegrave, daughter of Lord Kinnaird, members of whose family were among the original founders of the Y.W.C.A.

Miss Hutchison, national secretary for travelers' aid and immigration work, gave an enlightening talk on that phase of the Y.W.C.A.'s activities among the traveling public. Referring to this particular branch Miss Hutchison said there were 250 places throughout Canada where facilities and resources are provided for the wayfarer. The care and adjustment of transients was the main purpose of this work, she stated, meeting the individual need, whether that be the tragedy of a lost transportation ticket or worry over a lost child.

DRASTIC RULES ARE ISSUED AT MOSCOW

New Regulations Regarding Employment of Labor—To Aid Coal and Lumber Production

By JUNIUS B. WOOD
(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R., October 23.—New and radical rules regarding the employment of labor have been issued here by the government in accordance with resolutions of the Communist Party and labor unions. Promotion of workers in factories and other industries is prohibited for the next two years, though they can be promoted to better jobs within the factory. Workers leaving their employment will not be registered at the labor exchanges for other jobs.

A shortage of labor on account of widespread unemployment due to the five-year plan provokes the present regulations. Special efforts will be given coal production, which has fallen considerably below the plan, and lumber, which is one of the most profitable exports.

TO COAL REGIONS

Organizations have been ordered to send 100,000 members of the collective farms' peasant workers' Komsozols (federations of youth) who are no longer needed for the harvest, to the coal regions before Saturday, in an effort to produce 21,000,000 tons of coal this quarter. Even a larger army has been ordered on the same date to the northern timber regions, 954,000 workers for cutting 129,000,000 cubic meters of timber, and 1,100,000 men for transporting what is already cut. Inhabitants of the villages in the Archangel districts have been mobilized for this work, 400 or 500 men in each village, while 700 men in Pavlovsk village are going voluntarily. Director Goginsky, of the timber camp, was criticized for permitting 100 to return to their homes.

NEED MORE WORKERS

A review of this year says that only 52 per cent of the needed workers have been supplied in the lumber industry, 54 per cent for new factory construction, and 76 per cent for the coal mines. The Russian socialist Federated Soviet Republic needs 1,300,000 additional workers next year.

Rewards given the most zealous workers include trips abroad, special vacations, additional clothing, food and supplies, in addition to three days of each year's holidays or each two years of steady work.

Govorin, Golovskiy and Makeyevskiy, noted workers in the Donetsk Basin, Ukraine, are going to the United States.

RINGWORM OF THE FEET

One of the conditions that many people think is eczema of the feet is really ringworm, and so the usual remedies that help to cure eczema are not of much help.

As you and I remember ringworm it was upon the forehead or head.

However, what was formerly called marginal eczema of the feet is now known to be ringworm and is caused by fungus or sort of vegetable parasite.

This fungus infects the flat skin surface at almost any point, but the most interesting at the present time, owing to the great number of cases, is the infection of the feet.

Now you have seen the eczema of the feet with its reddish patches, and may be wondering how to tell ringworm from eczema.

You may remember in ringworm of scalp or forehead, there is always a well-defined border, very sharply outlined against the surrounding skin. And this is what is found in ringworm of the feet, there are no outlying little pimples or blisters.

In eczema, however, in addition to the patch or patches, there are often little pimples or blisters near the large patch of inflammation. The inflammation is not a well-defined border.

Ringworm of the feet usually affects the space between the toes, sometimes the soles of the feet.

It is through that infection is distributed by means of bath mats or the surfaces adjoining swimming pools and baths.

Research men scraping scales from the skin in these cases, have found that the fungus remains alive for more than a year and this explains how new infections and re-infections are so easily acquired. It is easily understood then how discouraged some patients become.

In the treatment of this obstinate ailment, Dr. Stewart MacArthur, Los Angeles, California, states that Whitfield's ointment is the best remedy. This originated in the Northern Hospital, London, England.

However some of the wholesale drug manufacturers are getting out preparations that are giving excellent results, and your doctor will likely know about them.

Now as you know how eruption occurs, its appearance, how it gets its start between the toes and on the soles of the feet, and that it is not eczema, you will know what to do should you have an attack.

PLEADED GUILTY BUT DISPUTED THE SPEED

H. Gentis pleaded guilty to the charge of exceeding the speed limit in passing Lake Hill School in Saanich and was fined in the police court by Magistrate Jay, yesterday. In pleading guilty the accused read a statement to the court relative to the matter in which he contradicted the contention of the police as to his exact speed. Mr. Gentis admitted that he was going at fifteen miles an hour but denied that he was making thirty-eight miles as claimed by the police. The magistrate pointed out that in any event the speed was beyond the limit of fifteen miles.

Smoking Was Compulsory in a School—Long after the introduction of tobacco into England it was used almost exclusively as a medicinal agent. It was generally believed to possess wonderful curative properties. Its compulsory use as a prophylactic in the Harrow School in England occurred in the seventeenth century during the Great Plague. HEAVY WINTER RACING CARD IS SCHEDULED

Many Meets to Be Run Off in Far West and Pacific Coast Shortly

AQUA CALIENTE WILL OPEN CHRISTMAS DAY

AQUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Mexico, Oct. 23.—With both Winter and Summer meetings scheduled by the Aqua Caliente Jockey Club for the season of 1930-1931; a twelve days' Fall season in Texas; Fall and Spring racing at Tanforan; ten days in the Spring at Del Monte, and a talked-of twenty-five days' meeting at Pomona in the early summer, almost continuous Far Western and Pacific Coast racing looms invitingly for owners and breeders of thoroughbreds.

RICH PURSE

The Aqua Caliente Winter season of eighty-one days, starting on Christmas Day, with its seventeen state events, headed by the "world's richest race," the $140,000 Aqua Caliente Handicap, of course, tops the list. The Summer meeting will again open next Fourth of July and continue through Labor Day, for a fifty-two-day run.

Arlington Downs, the Wagoner track, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, is to lead the Fall schedule, and, incidentally, break the jump from the East, with eleven days of thoroughbred sport, from November 1 to 11.

Following Arlington, the horsemen will move on to Tanforan, where on November 15 the gates will be thrown open for twenty-five days of the "sport of kings," winding up December 13. Then comes the Aqua Caliente opening on Christmas Day.

TEN-DAY CARD

Del Monte has announced a ten-day season following the closing at Aqua Caliente on March 29. Then Tanforan will swing into line for another twenty-five days, starting the latter part of April.

Rumor has it that Pomona will give a twenty-five-day meeting in the closing date at Tanforan and the Fourth of July opening at Aqua Caliente.

HARRY OLSON TO APPEAR IN SEMI-WINDUP

Portland Grappler Will Oppose Desmond Anderson Here Saturday Night

KRUSE AND STRACK IN SPECIAL BOUT

Harry Olson, rugged Portland mat man, who appeared here when the wrestling game made its return to Victoria, is coming back on Saturday to meet Desmond Anderson in the semi-windup to the twelve-round Kruse-Strack main event.

Olson will be remembered for his rough tactics against "Rocky" Brooks, Victoria wrestler, in his first appearance here. Brooks had been punishing Olson to his disliking, and in an ungentlemanly mood, Olson picked up the stool to throw at Brooks. Of course he never threw it, but he made a good bluff at it and scared a number of the feminine fans.

On Saturday Olson's time will be too much taken up with defending himself against the flashy Seattle mat man to bother with stools. However, for that matter stools are a thing of the past in the local ring.

Miss Hicks' tee shot, a little off line yesterday, were right down the middle today, and she finished the round with four birdies and one eagle to her credit.

She was closely followed by Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd and Virginia Van Wie, each scoring 164 for the thirty-six holes.

Tom Newman followed with 21,250; Clarke McConachy, Australia, had 20,843 points, and Lindrum 19,285. At the beginning of the second match, Lindrum gave a 7,000-point handicap to each of his three opponents.

O.C. SOCCER LEADERS TO BE TESTED

Early Pace Setters Will Clash in English and Scottish Leagues Tomorrow

ARSENAL TO PLAY WEST HAM UNITED

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The first clash of teams who have set the early pace in English and Scottish soccer will come on Saturday. Most of the clubs in the various divisions, who have shown strength to date, are drawn against one another. In the English First Division, while Arsenal, the league leaders, are drawn at home against their fellow leaders, Tottenham Hotspurs, both clubs are working hard to get back into the First Division.

Lincoln City, leading the Northern Section of the Third Division, meet the runners-up, Chesterfield. Nottingham, leaders of the Southern Section, have an easier task in Gillingham.

In the Scottish First Division, Motherwell, unbeaten so far, stack up at home against Celtic and it will be the feature match of the fixtures north of the Tweed.

COAST LOOPS WILL NOT INTERMINGLE

Idea to Play Interleague Ice Fixtures Dropped for This Season, Frank Patrick Says

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—Pacific Coast League hockey clubs will not play a regular interleague schedule with the California Hockey League this winter. That was the result of the conference held today here between Frank Patrick, president of the Coast League, and John J. Allen, Jr., of Oakland, newly-elected leader of the California League.

According to Patrick, the Californians are not yet organized for the new season. They are not sure whether they will have four clubs or five in their circuit, and general arrangements for the present season are still very much up in the air.

"We have our own annual meeting in Tacoma Tuesday," Patrick stated, "and we have to draw up a schedule then. On account of the late date, we find it impossible to enter into negotiations with the California League at present."

MAY PLAY EXHIBITIONS

There is yet a possibility that fans will be able to see some of the California Leaguers in action this winter, though, Patrick intimated. Although nothing definite has been decided, one club from each league may play exhibition games with the clubs of the other.

The main idea of the series of this kind would be to test the calibre of the hockey played in the leagues and see if it would be really feasible to play interleague games in the future. This matter will be decided upon by the league heads once the season gets under way.

Decision to abandon the interleague idea at present does not mean that the idea will be shelved indefinitely, it was gathered from Patrick's remarks. Providing satisfactory arrangements can be made, there is a possibility that the idea might be developed in the future.

Western Canada Rugby Play-Off's to Be Held on Coast, Nov. 15, 17

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—Dr. Shrum, president of the British Columbia Football Union, announced this afternoon that, following the receipt of a letter from President Ross, of Calgary, of the Western Canada Union, the series for the Western Canada championship in Vancouver is now assured. Ross advises Dr. Shrum that the winning Pacific team has been instructed to travel to this city and the conditions have been definitely set out.

Vancouver is required to guarantee $700 in the event of Calgary winning, $1,000 to the Roughriders of Regina, and $1,200 should the Winnipeg St. John's emerge victorious. The dates are finally given as Saturday and Monday, November 15 and 17. The figures represent half the expenses of the traveling team.

Ross' communication means that the Pacific champions will have to travel or lose the title by default.

Vancouver Fighter Soundly Trowned By Milwaukee Boy

Townsend Hits Floor in Every Round With Exception of One, and Shows Great Gameness—Coaster Stages Great Rally in Fourth Session

DETROIT, Oct. 23.—King Tut, hard-hitting welter from Milwaukee, won on a technical knockout from Billy Townsend, of Vancouver, in the sixth of a scheduled ten-round bout here tonight. Tut weighed 142½; Townsend 141½. Townsend put up a game fight, but was on the losing end throughout the six rounds. His gameness is attested by the fact that he was on the canvas in every round excepting the fourth, which he won by virtue of a brisk rally which had the curly-haired fighter in a bad way.

Although Tut was the master all the way he was by no means in a safe position, for Townsend's occasional rallies consisted of stinging lefts and rights to the head which repeatedly shook him up and forced him to back away.

Tut started out with a bang, sending a left to Billy's head ten seconds after the bell opened the first round, and Townsend went down flat on his back and took an eight-count.

Tut lost no time in following up his advantage and soon had Billy with his back to the ropes, but the latter survived this attack. Just before the bell Tut shook Townsend with another of his hard lefts to the jaw.

TAKES SIX COUNT

In the second Townsend took a six count as a result of a right punch on the chin. He rallied slightly, however, and just before the bell he staggered Tut with a left and right.

After taking a nine count in the third, Townsend started a rally with a stinging right to Tut's head in the latter's corner. He followed up with lefts and rights in a desperate attempt to recover and points.

The fourth was Townsend's round. In this stanza he caught his last rally and won the round with a barrage of lefts and rights which had Tut groggy several times.

Book another nine count on one knee in the fifth and was down twice more in the sixth before Tut's highly effective left caught him on the jaw again. It was this blow that ended the fight, for, after taking a count of seven, Townsend's seconds tossed in the towel.

U.B.C. TO MEET SASKATCHEWAN IN GRID TILT

Victory for British Columbia Squad Will Give Them Intercollegiate Title

CALGARY TIGERS TO OPPOSE EDMONTON

WINNIPEG, Oct. 23.—The twisting, kicking under dog of Prairie football is slated to perform his final twist and deliver his last, futile kick of 1930 on a widespread grouping of gridiron Saturday. A climactic day for champions, Saturday is expected to produce only more aches and pains for down-trodden Rugby teams that failed to get anywhere when they had the chance.

Ten big squads will report for duty on half as many battlegrounds between Winnipeg and the Rocky Mountain divide. Two of them are already winners of provincial titles. They will report for contests aimed to keep them in fighting form for the Western Canada play-downs.

But Saskatoon and Calgary fans are excited over seasonal highlight clashes. University of British Columbia, seeking intercollegiate supremacy in the West, meet University of Saskatchewan at Saskatoon. Calgary Tigers will become Alberta champions for the second straight time if they defeat Edmonton's Eskimos.

The powerful British Columbia student team, fresh from a convincing triumph over University of Alberta, will win the Ritchie Cup if they outscore Saskatchewan. But the giant green opposition, one of the best college teams produced on the Prairies in several seasons, has been unbeaten for two years at home. They are reckoned a considerably tougher proposition than British Columbia faced at Edmonton. The only games Saskatchewan has lost in two years were at Vancouver a year ago. British Columbia defeated them straight in a post-season series.

PROS' REQUEST DECLARED FAIR

Gates Says Percentage of Prize Money Used to Defray Ryder Cup Expenses

CONTRIBUTION OPTIONAL

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The agitation over the request by the Professional Golfers' Association for 10 per cent of tournament prize money, is exaggerated and unnecessary, according to Albert R. Gates, an officer of the association.

"The money does not go into the treasury of the P.G.A.," he said last night. "It is used to defray the expenses of the Ryder Cup matches which are played every two years between British and American professionals."

"Our tournament board, which is directed by Robert Harlow, offers to help these associations organize their events. In return we ask them to contribute 10 per cent of the prize money to the P.G.A. This contribution is entirely optional, and there is no ground for charges that pressure would be brought to keep leading players from participating in tournaments which do not make the payment."

WANDERERS LINE-UP

RISK LOSES TO DANIELS ON FCUL
Cleveland Lands Low Blow in Seventh Round of Fight at Boston Gardens

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—Dick Daniels, hard punching Minneapolis heavyweight, won on a foul from Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, in the seventh round of the Boston Garden's ten-round feature bout here tonight. The low blow, which appeared unintentional, was struck while Risko was savagely battering Daniels' body with both hands. Risko weighed 198 and Daniels 181-152.

Daniels dropped under the low blow and had to be carried to his corner. The referee, Johnny Martin, who had warned Risko but a round before, unhesitatingly disqualified him.

ON EVEN TERMS
The battlers were on even terms when the contest was stopped. Risko started savagely and gave Daniels a furious battering during most of the opening. The Cleveland "rubbish man" grew careless near the end of that session and came out of a clinch wide open. Daniels caught him with a right to the head and floored him.

Risko was a bit dazed either from pain or surprise, when he came out for the second and Daniels nailed him with another right hook and dropped him for nine. Risko, however, fought his way out of danger and managed to keep Daniels off with a long left.

Daniels did not flash again until the fifth when he gave Risko a heavy hammering. The latter's wide ring experience came to his rescue and he escaped the knockout blows that Daniels aimed by crowding him closely. Risko made a great recovery during the sixth and took the round by pouncing Daniels' body at close quarters. Each had three rounds and were making the battle a sensational affair when the low blow was struck.

UPLANDS AND MACAULEY TO MEET SUNDAY

Second Half of Annual Interclub Match Billed at Macauley Links

HOME CLUB WILL BE FORMIDABLE

R. L. "Bert" Challenger will take his first string squad of divot diggers representing the Uplands Golf Club to Macauley Point, Sunday, to engage in the second half of their annual interclub match. Uplands players have been traveling along in a blaze of glory all year and have yet to taste defeat.

Game to start at 3:30 o'clock.

Harry Smith and his squad of ruggers representing the Victoria High School, will be out after their second straight victory of the Senior Schools' Rugby League this afternoon, on their home grounds, when they clash with Brentwood College at 3:30 o'clock.

With both fifteens in fine condition, a great battle is expected. Last week, in the opening fixture, the black and gold team started off in spectacular style by taking the University School into camp. Brentwood must be counted as strong contenders for the honors, as they held the powerful Victoria College fifteen to a scoreless draw on Saturday on a mud-covered field.

Holding the forward line of the Craighdarroch Institute at bay is a job in itself, and the feat boosted the Brentwood stock 100 per cent. Hurn will referee and the High fifteen will line up as follows: Thorpe, Ferguson, Macmurchie, L. Patrick, Robson, Chapman, Scott, Stipe, Fyke, Johnson, Upward, M. Patrick, Hammonde, Bristowe and Levy.

COUNCIL TO HEAR PLAYING FIELD PLAN

Details of plans for the development of a playing field in Victoria will be presented to the next regular meeting of the City Council, Monday night, and arrangements are being made to receive a delegation at 7:30 o'clock. The plans, or proposals, of the sponsors of the new field have not been divulged, but it is stated that the delegation is representative of the Victoria Playing Fields Association.

Alderman John Worthington, chairman of the parks committee, intimated at the last meeting of the Council that a delegation would shortly appear with a proposition which would interest the aldermanic board. No letter had been received by the city clerk up to last night, the clerk being notified of the wishes of the delegation by telephone.

LORD DERBY HAS ALTERED VIEWS ON PROTECTION

Backs Some of Bennett's Proposals and Favors Safeguarding

SAYS QUOTA SYSTEM MAY BE ALTERNATIVE

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Lord Derby, who is sometimes called the uncrowned king of Lancashire, where Conservatism is concerned, and who has twice been a member of Conservative cabinets, made an interesting confession of his faith and professed some approval of Premier R. B. Bennett's trade proposals, in a speech in Cheshire last night.

"I still believe free trade all around the world would be best for all countries, but every country has now armed itself against others and incidentally even more against us," Lord Derby said. "In these circumstances it can be that the rest of the world is wrong and we are right? We have got to arm ourselves in the same way. I declare myself wholly and unreservedly in favor of the general principle of safeguarding."

"Premier Bennett said clearly his proposal was submitted only as a basis for discussion. When a man says a thing to open discussion it stands to reason he is prepared to consider any alternative policy. Therefore I do not think it was wrong to submit what is called the quota system as a possible alternative for a tax on wheat."

"I am quite pleased with your work and so in future—"

"Thank you, sir."

"In future I will not call you 'idiot' before the others."

Gold Is Found Under African Playing Field

By ARTHUR BELL

(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Oct. 23.—A sensation has been caused here as a result of the pegging of two cricket grounds and a baseball diamond at the Wanderers, Johannesburg, and South Africa's most famous sports club.

It is believed that a gold reef runs right through the sports ground. This is a piquant situation, owing to the visit of the English cricket team, which plays a match at Transvaal with the Wanderers on November 26 and with South Africa on December 24. The ground belongs to the Wanderers Club until 1935, but the mineral rights are held by the Government under the old Kruger law. The state, therefore, has the power to proclaim diggings.

The

Weaknesses in Old Country Football Teams Are Beginning to Show

After the strenuous programme of the opening weeks, unimpaired weaknesses in the ranks of certain clubs have become apparent, but earnest efforts are being made to improve the situation while there is yet time. With some clubs the justification for a cheery outlook is greater than others.

Following a wonderful run of success, Arsenal spoiled their unbeaten record by meeting their Waterloo at the Baseball Ground, Derby, on October 11 by four goals to two. Only one team out of the eighty-eight forming the English League now preserves a clean slate, and that team is Notts County. Anxious, of course, to reduce their term of relegation to a minimum and to restore to their supporters that brand of football to which they have long been accustomed, as well as to bring back those sparkling local football "Derbies" the County team have obtained thirty-six goals from the twelve games for twenty-two points.

A QUICK RETURN

Up to the time of their defeat Arsenal had lost only two points and had scored twenty-nine goals against twelve. But Derby County brought Arsenal down to Aston Villa's level—in fact, it was goal average which placed Arsenal second and Aston Villa third in the league.

though it was only by a bare margin, and at the expense of a team which has not yet even obtained a draw this season. Manchester United have now played eleven games, scored thirteen goals, while forty-five have been scored against them, and is the only league team in either England or Scotland which has not yet obtained a single point, for last Saturday Clydebank drew with Armadale in the Second Division of the Scottish League for their one and only point. Only two teams out of 123 forming the combined leagues in England and Scotland remain unbeaten—Notts County (Third Division, Southern Section) and Motherwell (First Division, Scottish League). Preston North End lead the Second Division by one point over Everton, who could only draw with Notts Forest last Saturday.

At the conclusion of the first strenuous month of association football, in which time they had played seven games with six wins and a draw, Aston Villa came a cropper at Ayresome Park, Middlesbrough, on September 27. Prior to that game they had won four of five games, and a place desired by all, but attained by few—in the ranks of English League football. Their conquerors on this occasion, Middlesbrough, gained promotion at the conclusion of the 1926-27 programme with six ty-two points, only to slip back again to the Second Division with the climax of the following season. Forty-two games in the lower grade sufficed to again prove their elevated quality and this time with more success, for they finished their programme with six teams below them. The feat of causing a team of the calibre of Aston Villa its first defeat of this season—a team which has been six times champions of the English League and six times possessors of the English Cup—was a commendable one, especially as both Villa meetings last season ended in disaster for the Middlesbrough club.

DETERMINED EVERTON

After their first and only defeat by Port Vale this season, Everton got back into their stride by a three-goal victory on the occasion of the commencement of the second month's programme. As the only member of the original twelve who had not previously suffered relegation, Everton had not escaped from some of the first league's worst ills. Fulfilling a regular league fixture at Wood Park against Blackburn Rovers on September 16, 1922, there was some hectic scoring against them, for J. McIntyre scored four goals in five minutes. This feat, however, was surpassed by Aston Villa against Huddersfield when four goals were scored in four minutes on October 4.

RELATED PROGRESS

Manchester United's deplorable predicament, especially when one recalls their glorious traditions, is regrettable. The club is at the bottom of the league and one cannot hope for an improvement unless new players are introduced. With their defeat by Newcastle United by seven goals to four on September 13, Chelsea, the United's goalkeeper, had been beaten nineteen times in three consecutive games. Six times were by Chelsea, six times by Huddersfield, and seven times by Newcastle United. Chelsea's Scotch stars got eight of those goals—Cheyne (three), Gallacher (two), and Alec Jackson (three)—while playing for his old team, Huddersfield Town.

LEEDS UNITED

If Leeds United started badly, young blood has been introduced with happy results. Now in his third year with the club, Willie Purness, their inside right, who turned in two capital performances against Manchester United and Blackburn Rovers, is only just twenty-one years of age. Another promising young player of the same age is Wilfrid Coppinger, a left halfback, and twice runners-up in 1927 and 1928, commenced their present season at Upton Park by losing to West Ham. Alec Jackson, since transferred to Chelsea, and great match winner in their cup engagements last season, scored the first goal for Huddersfield and the first against the "Hammers" this season, but it was not sufficient for even a division of the points. The Leeds Road team won both games against West Ham last season, but are not now so confident. The Leeds Division teams have in finding suitable substitutes for the most important position on the field of play. It is recorded that when George Brown went to Villa Park last season, Huddersfield Town tried no fewer than seven players for the centre-forward position, and of these D. Mangnall was the most successful. Thirty professional and three amateurs comprised Huddersfield's material at the commencement of the present season. Before leaving them for the Metropolis, that great international star, Alec Jackson, scored seven goals for them, and it will be interesting to note how his old team will fare without him and how many goals he will score and how many games he will win for his new team. When it was first rumored that this brothers, whose combined age amounted to forty-one years, play together as fullbacks. The present one is not the only instance of brothers in double harness or opposition. Leeds United are of post-war origin and entered the Second Division for the 1920-21 season, winning promotion after four seasons. Their first visit to the Arsenal Highbury was an occasion of note. Alfred Baker was then captain of the home team and his brother Jim was the leader of Leeds United, producing the unusual spectacle of two brothers toting up the coin on behalf of their respective sides. Leeds United have lost seven games this season, and as they receive Middlesbrough on Saturday at Ellard Road their position is likely to become more jeopardized.

HUDDERSFIELD TOWN

Last season's unsuccessful cup finalists, runners-up in 1920, and also in 1928, winners of the trophy in 1922, three winners of the league championship in 1924, 1925 and 1926, and twice runners-up in 1927 and 1928, commenced their present season at Upton Park by losing to West Ham. Alec Jackson, since transferred to Chelsea, and great match winner in their cup engagements last season, scored the first goal for Huddersfield and the first against the "Hammers" this season, but it was not sufficient for even a division of the points. DERBY COUNTY

The English Cup finalists of 1908, 1909 and 1912, and the semi-finalists of 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915 and 1923, were Derby County. In a souvenir official programme have as a reminder of my visit to the Baseball Ground on September 4 last year, when the County beat Aston Villa by four clear goals, it is said about their first game against Sunderland that Derby's aggregation was the younger by twenty-two years, despite the fact in the visitors' ranks was probably the oldest player on the field. In the short space of five days it was my privilege to witness thirteen First Division goals—twelve for winning and one for a draw. Manchester United's single goal against Leicester City was the only one scored by the loers. And the most spectacular of them was that scored at Highbury by that ideal of English forwards and successful captain of the English team which beat Scotland last year and of the Arsenal eleven which won the English Cup at the Imperial Stadium, Wembley, on April 26—David Jack. Derby County finished second to Sheffield Wednesday last season in the league championship and, despite the fact that they have spent little money on new players, they can be numbered among the clubs with most logical grounds for anticipating another successful season. Of which four were won and four were drawn, their journey to Portsmouth and their appearance at Fratton Park on October 4 brought their first defeat, for "Pompey" won by two clear goals. Derby County entertain Sheffield Wednesday on Saturday.

MANCHESTER UNITED

"The outlook for Manchester United can hardly be described as rosy." Truer predictions have seldom been quoted than these recent words of The Athletic News, whose the English Association Cup neither have they ever competed in a final game, despite the fact that they are recognized as one of the classiest teams in the English League. In their first game last season it was my privilege, while a guest of the club, to witness the defeat of Manchester United at Fribert Street by four goals to one. Just at a time when I was congratulating myself on witnessing two four-to-nothing defeats in three days (for I was present at Highbury when Arsenal beat Leeds United on the opening day) a free kick was awarded the United and they made no mistake. William Orr, Leicester City's genial secretary, afterwards conducted me over luxurious quarters where everything possible is provided for the activity and leisure of the playing staff. There is a therapeutic department, together with a radiant heat bath, an ultra-violet ray equipment and a radiant lamp for treating injuries, while the walls are hung with charts showing bones and muscles. In Leicester City's ranks this season one distinguished personality is missing in the person of John Duncan. For the past six seasons this talented right half-back has been the captain—a player whose versatility was the most pronounced of the eighteen First Division half-backs I saw in league competition. Twenty-eight athletes are on Leicester City's playing staff. Aston Villa will be guests at Fribert Street next Saturday.

A complete programme of First Division games for next Saturday follows, the home team in each instance being placed first: Arsenal (Highbury) vs. West Ham United, Birmingham (Villa Park) vs. Chelsea.

critics are recognized as peers outstanding in the confines of association football. Nine of their players—five of them First Division men—have been transferred, with only three new-comers to commence the season, which left them with only twenty-six professionals. The local "Derby" with Manchester City signified their ninth successive defeat and league figures then divulged the distressing news that thirty-eight goals had been scored against them with only eleven to their credit. A threatened boycott by their supporters may contribute towards an upward movement at Old Trafford. Will this revival commence at Fratton Park, Portsmouth, next Saturday?

LEICESTER CITY

Primarily known to many Victorians as Leicester Fosse, and while still a unit of the Second Division, the name of this respected and talented club was changed to Leicester City. It was at the birth of the 1925-26 season that the City's name was found among the list of First Division clubs, they having beaten Manchester United in the race the previous season for premier honors. Two years later Leicester finished their engagements in third position, and the following season pressed Sheffield Wednesday for major honors. Both teams won a like number of games. Wednesday's lone point of superiority being obtained by reason of one more drawn game than Leicester could boast. Equality of points would probably have given the championship to the city by approximately one-thirteenth part of a goal. Portsmouth qualified for promotion to the First Division in 1926-27 after a thrilling race with Manchester City by the 200th part of a goal. Leicester City have never won

(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)LONDON, Oct. 23.—Hopes that British automobile manufacturers may capture the overseas markets, now almost monopolized by American exporters, have been roused by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's hint of a change in the system of taxing automobiles here.Great Britain levies a £1 ($5) tax on every horsepower of her autos.
Motorists, therefore, buy almost exclusively small cars to avoid the burdensome annual taxes. British manufacturers specialize in small cars to supply the home trade and therefore are unable to satisfy the Dominion demand for higher-powered cars.As a result the United States sells almost 90 per cent of the motors used in Australia and dominates other foreign markets.MAY TAX GAS INSTEAD While visiting the British Motor Show at Olympia with the Dominion premiers, Mr. MacDonald made a remark which is widely interpreted as signifying early modification or abolition of the horsepower tax in favor of one on gasoline. The premier assured Austin, Morris and other manufacturers at the show that he was desirous of stimulating the British auto export trade, and it is reported that the Treasury and the Ministry of Transport are agreeable to a change in the tax.But the manufacturers themselves are split over modification.
The makers of baby cars contend that abolition of the horsepower tax will injure the trade in little cars, which Great Britain now monopol-izes. They suggest a reduction in that tax, but not its abolition, and urge Austin, Morris and the British Ford factories to make one type of car for export and another for the home market.Whatever is done regarding the tax, it seems certain that British producers will fight harder for overseas markets.Licences Issued
This Year Show
Large IncreaseAccording to recent reports from the Dominion Government, the total number of radio licences issued in Canada to date for the year 1930-31 to the end of September, 1930, was 359,832, as compared with 423,557 issued for the year 1929-30.
Of those issued in 1930-31, Victoria and vicinity's contribution was 8,615, whereas the grand total for the year 1929-30 was only 5,709.This is a decided increase for this city and proves the fact that radio broadcasting is becoming more and more popular with the public.The district described as Victoria and vicinity includes all the suburbs of the lower part of the island.Don't Fail to See

RACING RULES FOR BIG CRAFT ARE MODIFIED

Representative British and American Yachtsmen Discuss New Regulations

WILL DO AWAY WITH
FREAK RUNNING GEAR

LONDON, Oct. 23.—British and American yacht racing authorities have agreed to do away with the "mechanical" yacht, which came into fame in the recent races for the America's cup, in future international contests.

After a series of conferences, in which Norman Clark Neill and B. J. Smith, British representatives, met first with New York Yacht Club representatives, then with the council of the British Yacht Racing Association, the council yesterday voted to adopt, with modifications, the New York Yacht Club's rule rating racing yachts of above 14 1/2 meters in length. The modification provides that Class "C" yachts, which include all America's cup contenders, must carry a mast weighing at least 5,500 pounds bare, that standing rigging shall not be set up nor worked below the upper deck, and that the yachts shall be fitted with "reasonable" living accommodations.

This change eliminates many of the ingenious but expensive devices used by the cup defender Enterprise in its recent triumph over Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V. The light and efficient duralumin mast and the various below-deck devices for handling the sheets, halyards and backstays come under this ban, but the winch for hoisting the heavy mainsail and the unique boom with which Enterprise was equipped, called "the greatest contribution to yachting engineering in many years" by Charles Nicholson, Shamrock's designer, will be allowed.

The new rule goes into effect January 1, and all yachts must comply with it in the 1931 racing season.

NEW PROGRAMME OF COLLEGE SONGS TO COMMENCE OVER NBC

A new programme of popular college songs, each week featuring a different university, will be offered each Friday, beginning this afternoon over a National Broadcasting Company network.

College Memories, sponsored by the National Battery Company, will not only sing the school songs, but will refer to traditional spots on the campus of the university whose song is to be used, and will recall memories dear to the hearts of the scattered alumni.

The opening programme will feature the University of Wisconsin at Madison. The quartette will also visit, vocally, Yale, Harvard, Stanford, and other leading schools. A. W. "Sen" Kane will announce the programme and the Chicagoans quartette will sing the college songs. The broadcast originates at the National Broadcasting Company's Chicago studios.

The programme will be heard each Friday from 4:15 to 4:30 p.m. Pacific standard time, over stations KOMO, Seattle and KGO, Oakland and San Francisco.

Toronto Station Heard by Radio In South Africa

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—CPRY, broadcasting dance programmes by Fred Cuiley and his Royal York Hotel Orchestra from the roof garden of the Royal York, has been picked up several times recently by radio fans at Johannesburg, South Africa. Word to this effect was received yesterday by B. A. Neale, manager of this Canadian Pacific Hotel, from L. J. Lawrence, of 15 Iris Street, Kensington, Johannesburg, who writes that these dance programmes came to Johannesburg over the short wave stations of KOKA and WXAL at 6 a.m. (South African time), Wednesdays. This broadcast goes out over the N.B.C. with Fred Cuiley and his dance orchestra at midnight every Wednesday. This is approximately 6 o'clock in the morning in South Africa.

On every occasion that he has heard Fred Cuiley's programme, Mr. Lawrence states that the reception has been excellent, with the music coming in loud on the speaker.

1 ♠ Pass Pass
West Pass Pass
North 1 N.T. Pass
East Pass Pass

In the above deal played by North at No Trump, East establishes two long Spades before the Declarer has been enabled to establish enough tricks between own hand and Dummy to enable him to go game.

After the third lead of Spades, Declarer can see that he must make, with Dummy's aid, two Spades, two Hearts, three Diamonds and one Club. The only prospect for the ninth trick appears to be in the Club suit in which both Declarer and Dummy hold four cards.

The normal way to play the Club suit would be to place West with one of the high honors and the ten, or in other words, to lead the first Club from the Dummy and finesse the nine spot.

In the present instance, however, this will not answer the purpose for although it would enable the Declarer to make three tricks in Clubs, the adversaries would have in the meantime taken three Spades, a Heart, and a Club.

It is not necessary that Declarer obtain three tricks in Clubs, and will be sufficient—so that if West should happen to have both the King and Queen, game is not in danger. If East should have either the K or Q, game cannot be made. Therefore the Declarer must play with the hope that East holds neither of the high honors, or that if he hold either one, it is a singleton.

Accordingly before entering the Dummy and wasting an entry, the Ace of Clubs should be laid down. Having the luck to find the singleton Queen in East's hand, North is enabled to make three Clubs, and four odd.

SALENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING
Contract: South opens the bidding with one Heart, a minimum bid with a four card suit. West passes and North, with the other three suits doubly stopped, bids two No Trumps. East passes, and although South holds but a minimum opening bid he should answer the forcing take-out by bidding three No Trumps, for a part of his opening bid values was the King of Diamonds. This high card value had not previously been declared, for as far as North could know the opening bid might have been on a five card Heart suit. This concludes the bidding.

Auction: South opens the bidding with one Heart. West passes and North bids one No Trump, which all pass.

THE PLAY
East opens his fourth best Spade, the six, and North wins the trick with the ten. A Heart is led and the Jack finessed. The finesse loses to West's Queen, and West returns a Spade. North plays the Jack and East wins the trick with the Queen.

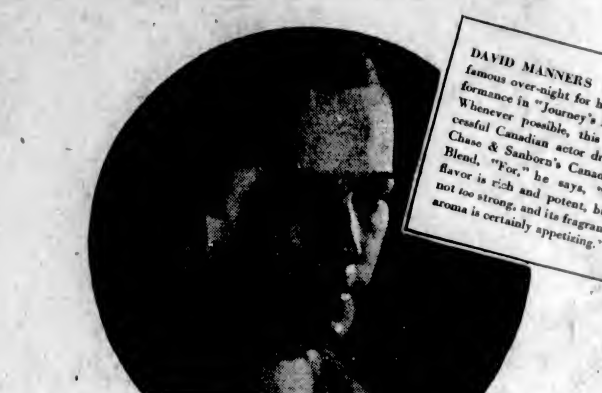

A third round of Spades is led by East and the trick is taken by North's Ace. West discarding the two of Diamonds.

This is the point at which North must make the determination as to the proper play of the Club suit. The Ace of Clubs is led and the Queen falling from East's hand, Dummy is put in the lead with the King of Diamonds at the next trick in order to lead the eight of Clubs.

It really makes no difference which Club West plays to this trick, but assuming that he covers with the ten, North will take the trick with the Jack and return the five spot to drive out the King. This is the last trick that East and West get, for Declarer can discard one of his small Diamonds on one of the two high Hearts in Dummy's hand.

PLACER GOLD DISCOVERY
PRINCE GEORGE—William O'Dell arrived in the city this week very much elated over a placer find made on the Fraser River several miles east of this city. He was packing two bottles, and the viewing of their contents gave him no end of satisfaction. One bottle contained a large quantity of platinum sand, in which he said considerable gold values were contained, and in the second bottle were large nuggets of gold which had been retorted from the sands. O'Dell claims to have located a high channel of the Fraser River, rich in fine gold, but so light that it cannot be separated from the platinum sands without the use of quicksilver. These sands are so rich, according to O'Dell's story, that he and another miner recovered $500 worth of gold in three weeks working with a crude rocker contrivance. The exact location of the find is being kept a secret until a number of locations can be made upon the old river channel.

BODY OF SCIENTIST FOUND
REVELSTOCK—Sidney Leary,

timber and sawmill operator at Nakusp, has brought word here of the finding of the badly decomposed body of a man on Wood River, east of Canoe River, up the Bing Bend. The body was found by Mr. Leary and Pete Berghenham, guide, in a cabin. A rifle and revolver and ammunition were beside the dead man. From appearances in the cabin, it was thought that the deceased was a scientist.

DRILLING FOR OIL
QUESNEL—E. F. Harrison, who is handling the drilling contract for oil at Australian, was in town last Monday, and reports everything going excellently at the well. He was unable to state how far down the drill had gone or the nature of the formations encountered, as that information was for the owners only. Another driller joined the staff this week.

He is a bachelor and claims he has never married because he has always been too busy.

KAMLOOPS PIONEER DIES
KAMLOOPS—Joseph Power, aged eighty-eight, a resident of Kamloops and district since 1886, died at Knutsford recently. He was born in Ireland in 1842. In the Spring of 1886 he came to British Columbia with his family and was employed by the C.P.R. here. He left the railway company in 1902, and some few years later he purchased land at Knutsford. Married in 1900, Mr. Power is survived by a great-grandson who is twenty-four years of age. A daughter is residing in Australia, and two sons, David Power and Sam Power, of Kamloops, also survive.

Autumn Brings Sweet Potato Back to Menu

By EDITH M. BARBER

(Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

One of the Autumn products which almost always welcome from me is sweet potatoes. They begin to come in during the summer, but the Autumn usually brings them in plentiful quantities and in good quality.

They are not as easy to transport as white potatoes. In fact Southern growers feel that we do not get in the North sweet potatoes which are worthy of the name. They use the very sweet, syrupy yams which we never see here, as they cannot be sent a long distance from their place of growth.

Candied sweet potatoes seem to be a general favorite. These are par-boiled, sliced and cooked either in a frying pan or in a dripping pan in the oven with a brown sugar syrup. They are even better when they are sliced raw, as if they were to be French fried, and then put with brown sugar in alternate layers in a baking dish. A tablespoon of two of water are poured over them and then they are baked in a slow oven for an hour and a half or more until they are tender.

Mashed sweet potatoes are sometimes used. They need much butter and should be well seasoned with salt and black pepper. I wonder if you have ever tried adding crushed pineapple pulp and juice to mashed sweet potatoes, with a meringue made of marshmallows cooked in the oven long enough to melt and brown? This is not served as a pudding, as it seems it ought to be, but as a vegetable. Theoretically I think it ought to be terrible, but actually I eat it with appetite when it is offered.

Sweet potatoes make just as good a pie as pumpkin or squash. A little sherry flavoring improves it very much. Sometimes a meringue or whipped cream is used for the top. There are also a number of sweet potato pudding recipes which are very good indeed.

Have you ever made French fried sweet potatoes? These are particularly good with broiled ham. Croquettes are also delicious. Nuts combine well with the potatoes in this dish. Creamed sweet potatoes with pimientos are worth trying. They are good when they are scalloped with apples. You probably are familiar with that popular luncheon dish of parboiled potatoes, sliced apples and bacon.

There really are almost as many ways of varying the cooking of sweet potatoes as there are of cooking white potatoes. I have probably left out your favorite in the list. Recipes that justify popularity of the sweet potato:

SWEET POTATO PUFF
Season mashed boiled sweet potatoes with butter, salt, pepper and sherry wine flavoring. Moisten with cream and beat five minutes. Put in a buttered baking dish and pour over three tablespoons maple or any other syrup and make into ridges with a fork. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) until delicately browned.

WITH MARSHMALLOWS
Five sweet potatoes, hot milk, butter, marshmallows, seasoning. Cook the sweet potatoes until soft. Pare, press through the ricer and add seasoning and hot milk, enough to make a soft consistency. Add a tablespoonful of butter to each pint of potatoes and place in a greased baking dish. Cover with marshmallows and bake in a hot oven (500 degrees Fahrenheit) until brown.

WITH PORK CHOPS
Arrange pork chops in deep baking dish and bake thirty minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit). At the end of that time arrange around the chop alternate slices of sweet potato and cored apples. Cook fifteen to twenty minutes more until they are slightly brown and the apples are tender. Baste once during the time.

WITH TOMATOES
Boil sweet potatoes until tender and remove the skins. Place in a baking dish, cover with slices of bacon and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) until brown.

FASHION NOTE

SHEER luxury is implied by sheer metal cloths which are so much in demand for formal afternoon frocks. A lovely frock is made of black and gold metal cloth in a leaf pattern. It has a scalloped neckline and the same detail marks the bodice and hip sections.

degrees Fahrenheit) until the bacon is crisp. Pour over the potatoes a can of tomato soup and return to the oven to reheat.

"There are talkative men," says a lecturer, "and there are less talkative men." And then, of course, there are married men.

The Boy: Darling, I'll love you for ever!
The Girl: No, dear. Dad said I must send you home at 11.

LORD BRENTFORD IS SNUBBED FOR STAND

Statement to Baldwin Results in Invitation to Dinner Being Canceled

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The powers that be in the Conservative party have snubbed Lord Brentford, better known as the former Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Secretary for Home Affairs in the late Baldwin cabinet.

When Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, last week, issued his statement accepting the Imperial preference of offers, Lord Brentford simultaneously issued a statement urging Mr. Baldwin to "take his courage in both hands and include agriculture in his scheme."

Now an invitation to Lord Brentford to be chief guest at the annual dinner of the famous Carlton Club on November 4 has been canceled without any specific reason.

The original invitation was issued by Sir Stanley Maschip, September 26, and was cordially accepted by Lord Brentford.

On Monday, however, Sir Stanley wrote to Lord Brentford that the arrangement had been changed and the gathering would not take place just at present.

Lord Brentford replied with the unabashed remark that "while I should appreciate the honor of being your guest, perhaps I shall still more appreciate the privilege of a quiet evening at home."

Mrs. Cayenne: "That new hat makes your face look short."
Mrs. Fashionable: "That is very strange. It made my husband's face look long."

Wife—How dare you swear before me?
Husband (very fed up)—All right, you swear first.

Impy Takes Frisky Home

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who thinks he knows a lady's mind how wrong he is will someday find.

—Old Mother Nature.

"Do you know where my home is?" asked Impy very suddenly.

"Little Miss Frisky nodded. "I've known that for a long time," said she. "I've watched you come out and go in many times."

Impy remembered then that Miss Frisky had told him once before that she knew where his home was. He had pretended not to believe it. Now, however, this wouldn't do. He knew in his heart that she must be speaking the truth. "I didn't suppose anyone would find that," said he. "I have never found your home and I've looked for it and looked for it."

Little Miss Frisky chuckled softly. "The entrance to my home is well hidden, if I do say so," said she. "I should love to see the inside of your home."

"If you like it will you live there with me?" asked Impy.

"That depends," replied Little Miss Frisky.

"Then it's all settled," replied Impy promptly. "We'll live in whichever home you like the best. I do hope you'll like my home, for it is the very best one I've ever had."

What are you chuckling about?" "It's the only one you've ever had of your own, isn't it?" asked Little Miss Frisky demurely.

Impy had to admit that it was. He took her down inside and showed her the long hall that led to the snug bedroom, which was really on the other side of the big stonepile. He showed her where the back door had been, out of which he had pushed all the sand; and how he had filled the passage that led to this door. Miss Frisky examined everything with the greatest of care. She discovered the two little storerooms that opened from the long hall and wanted to know what those were. Impy told her "I guess I made those rooms just for the fun of working," said he. "I knew they would come in handy sometime."

"I guess I made those rooms just for the fun of working," said he.

Miss Frisky nodded approvingly. "These are very good," said she. "I think we'll make them a little larger; also, I think we'll add one or two more. I believe in having plenty of storerooms."

"Then we are going to live here!" cried Impy delightedly.

Miss Frisky nodded. "This is a better house than mine," said she. "This is very fine indeed. I can think of but one improvement."

"What is that?" asked Impy.

"We'll change the entrance," said Little Miss Frisky.

Impy's face fell. He had been very proud of that entrance and the way it was hidden. "What is the matter with this entrance?" he demanded.

"Other folks know where it is," replied Little Miss Frisky. "I saw that fellow you fought with over here looking at it."

"I suppose you are right, my dear," said he. "We'll change the entrance. Come with me and I'll show you."

"We won't bother," replied Miss Frisky. "I decided long ago where the entrance is going to be. I decided before ever you had that great fight."

Impy blinked. He opened his mouth to say something and then thought better of it. He felt that there was nothing he could say.

Stratosphere Airplane Is Latest Creation of German Air Engineers

By FROLEY PARSON
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

BERLIN, Oct. 23. — Adventurous German air engineers are devoting considerable ingenuity these days to attempts to propel man through space with the speed of a projectile. The latest result is the new "stratosphere" airplane, by which it is expected to fly from Berlin to Paris in one hour. This ten-mile-a-minute airplane is being constructed by the great Junkers Company, whose beautiful all-metal airplanes now wing over all the capitals of Europe and Asia.

ARTIFICIALLY RESPIRATED

The airplane is expected to fly at a height of 33,000 feet and the occupants will be artificially respired. The engine itself will be fed oxygen by a new device in order to compensate for the loss of the ordinary horsepower due to the thin air at such an altitude. The engine is also entirely isolated from contact with the outer air, so as to reduce as much as possible the adverse effects of the rarefied atmosphere. The first flight is expected next Spring.

The Junkers people declare that the "rail-Zeppelin," which made an amazing debut at Hanover, Saturday, by traveling at a rate of 100 miles per hour, is outdated by their new stratosphere. The Society of Traffic Technique, which constructed the rail-Zeppelin, expects it to make at least 150 miles per hour—and there seems to be no reason why with its streamline design it should not do this.

SAFER ALOFT

The race for speed between land and air in Germany is based fundamentally on the expected safety factor provided by ground travel. Inventors of the rail-Zeppelin declare that passengers are much safer aloft and also that their mode of travel really costs less per mile and per minute for super speeds, as they can do 100 miles an hour with forty passengers and consume only twenty-two gallons of petrol for that distance.

This speed, if obtainable, would be much greater than that of the "Flying Scotman," the world's fastest express train, running between London and Edinburgh, which averages over a mile a minute. The only reason why the German rail car is called a "rail-Zeppelin" is that it is pulled by a propeller.

LIKE SEGRAVE'S RACE

Ninety-two feet long, seating forty passengers, hauled along by a whirling propeller, the rail-Zeppelin looks like an exaggerated model of the racing car in which Sir Henry Seagrave broke the world's motor car record in Florida. It actually reached a speed of 100 miles per hour after two minutes from a dead start.

But what will happen when this latest rail car attempts to take crossroads or switches at a speed anything like commensurate with its maximum can only be known when it tries them. Which last vividly recalls last year's finish of the driver of the German "rocket motor," whose acceleration was so incredible that he was unable to control it and was shot horizontally like a skyrocket to his death.

GERMAN MINISTER OF INTERIOR APPOINTED

Selection of Karl Severing Creates Sensation, but Meets With Wide Approval

By OTTO BROCK
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

BERLIN, Oct. 23. — The appointment of Karl Severing as Prussian Minister of Interior has created a sensation over all Germany, as it indicates the strong determination of the Prussian Cabinet to put up an energetic fight against the extremists of the left and the right.

With Herr Severing receiving the Interior portfolio, the same man returns to the beautiful palace on Unter den Linden who had been minister of Interior from 1920 to 1926, and in many critical situations had shown great energy and courage.

As head of 150,000 policemen, all of whom have undergone some sort of military training, the Prussian Minister of Interior is one of the most powerful men in Germany and it is therefore easy to understand why democratic circles welcome the appointment of a man who unquestionably belongs to the class of elite German Republicans.

WILL REMOVE POLICE CHIEF

The first official action of the new minister will be the removal of the Berlin police president, Karl Zörgel, and the appointment of the former Prussian Minister, Albert Grzesinski, in his place, it is understood.

Herr Grzesinski is an intimate friend of Herr Severing, and unlike his predecessor, who lost all his popularity with the masses because of his reckless tactics against Berlin Communists last year, has the confidence of the working class of the German capital.

The Reich Cabinet has been completely surprised by the change in Prussian Government, but the Reich Ministers are said to agree with Dr. Otto Braun, Prussian Premier, that the strongest men available must be called to the front at such a critical time.

SHAKEUP IN QUEBEC CABINET IS MOOTED

Taschereau May Resign as Attorney-General, and Highway Minister May Quit Post

MONTREAL, Oct. 23. — A shakedown in the Provincial Cabinet of major proportions is stated to be probable by Le Devoir today. The paper mentions that Hon. J. L. Perron, Minister of Highways, may retire owing to ill-health and be succeeded by Adélard Godbout, member for L'Islet.

Premier L. A. Taschereau may resign as Attorney-General, being succeeded by the present Minister of Roads, Hon. J. E. Perrault, the paper adds. The new Minister of Roads would be Victor Marchand, member for Jacques Cartier.

The paper goes on to say that the resignation of the Premier as Attorney-General would follow the lead of Hon. Sir Lomer Gouin, who relinquished that office to Mr. Taschereau shortly before he gave up the premiership and went to Ottawa as Minister of Justice. With this as a sign of the complete withdrawal of Mr. Taschereau from provincial public life, the paper asks:

Rumor has it, Le Devoir says, that Mr. Justice J. M. Teller will re-enter public life as head of the provincial Conservative party. Camille Houde, provincial leader and Mayor of Montreal, would be willing to serve under Mr. Teller, the paper says.

Auburn Steno—Why the deuce do I struggle with this piffling job? Second Ditto—Don't be discouraged; think of the mighty oak. It was once a nut like you.

TASMANIA TO ABOLISH ITS OFFICE IN LONDON

HOBART, Tasmania, Oct. 23. — Economy occupied the State Assembly of this island state today, and after a lengthy debate Premier McPhee announced the office of Agent-General in London would be abolished. An opposition motion to abolish the office of state, however, was defeated, 9 to 8.

The office of Agent-General at London will end in March of next year, when the term of the present agent, Dr. Arey Wentworth Addison, expires. Future representation of the state in London will be arranged with the Australian Commonwealth Government through Australia House.

What Today Means

"SCORPIO"

If October 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 11 p.m. to midnight.

Astrological influences on this date favor an active life, particularly physical exertions. Events will show that only the best horses are handicapped. A journey and small change are shown. Do not entrust important matters to others—"If you would have your business done, go: if not, send."

The child born on this October 24 will have an active, restless spirit, but a frank, honest, sincere, loyal and liberty-loving nature. It will be drawn towards science, philosophy and religion. It will possess warm affections and sympathy, and will never be able to accumulate material possessions.

Born under the sign of Scorpio, you should have a very determined, reserved, tenacious and secretive nature. You have unmistakable traits of character that cause you to be either very much liked or very much disliked. Your somewhat suspicious nature causes you to be distrustful, and your vindictiveness and fault-finding tendencies may be carried to an abnormal degree. Amidst your traits, you have that grit and backbone which enables you to achieve higher attainments than most of those born in other signs. If the desire is awakened, you will be able to completely overcome your most odious faults, or to so harness them that they will work for your good. Your passionate, animal instincts are very strong, but when they have been conquered and temperance learned you will be able to rise to great spiritual heights. It has been said "the greater the animal the greater than man."

You are endowed with an "eagle eye" and an insatiable thirst for finding out the true nature of things. Many occult researchers, chemists, inductive philosophers and detectives owe their faculties to this sign. You can criticize perfectly and impartially, and you are able to give your judgment in a decisive and clear manner.

A series of difficulties in the early part of your life will eventually lead on to honors and success. You will not find your true mate early in life, and it is probable that you will marry more than once.

EASTCREST GOES TO 78

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—Continued selling in a slightly increased volume of trading sent prices still lower on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today. All interest was centred in the oils, the mines remaining at a standstill. Home Oil led today's downturn with an 18-cent loss at 230. Mayland was off 7 cents at 36, while Calmont lost 5 cents to 47. Three-cent losses were suffered by United and A.P. Consolidated.

COST OF LIVING IS REDUCED IN GREAT BRITAIN

Daily Express Gives List of Sweeping Price Declines
Made in Year

PURCHASING POWER OF MONEY MUCH GREATER

Sweeping reductions in the cost of living in Great Britain are detailed in September issues of The Daily Express, London, recently arriving in this city. The purchasing power of money is stated to have increased 30 per cent during twelve months, so that £1.00 would now go farther than £1.30 would one year ago.

The Daily Express says: "A Daily Express representative who went shopping yesterday, made the following startling comparison between the prices of 1929 and 1930:

Price
yesterday last year
2 lb. Apricot Jam 1 4 6
1 lb. Carolina Rice 1 4 6
1 lb. Cocoa 1 4 6
1 lb. Bacon 1 4 6
1 lb. Butter (New Zealand) 1 4 6
Young Grouse 4 0 7
1 lb. Curry Chicken 1 10 2
1 lb. Sugar 2 1/2 2
1 lb. California Plums 10 1/2 1
Bottled Plums 10 1/2 1
1 lb. Raisins 1 1/2 1
1 lb. Flour 4 6 8

CLOTHING

"Men's clothing, 30 per cent cheaper.
"Women's semi-luxuries—Squirrel fur coats last year, £25, now £15. Rabbit skin coats, last year £9, now selling for £5. American broadtail fur coats, last year £150, now £80. Seal muscoush coats, last year £90, now £50.

"These are not special prices, but represent normal reductions.
"The Economist announces that a housewife who had to spend £1 in meat and cereals last year, can now obtain the same quantity and quality for sixteen shillings.
"The cost of construction of new houses has been reduced 15 to 20 per cent.
"Rubber and tea are down to pre-war level in the wholesale market.
"The low cost of rubber has had a profound effect on the retail prices during a downward movement until yesterday.

The important point, I believe, is that from now on the decline will thin out with what remains on the down side doing its work by means of particularly marked movements in a considerably reduced number of stocks, while other stocks remain comparatively unchanged. This is the type of performance which I believe will account for the expectation pointed out yesterday that the industrial averages would be in the 170's, as compared with the 180's of 1929 when a bottom is established.

The utilities in particular, I believe, will account for most of the remaining decline in so far as a group of stocks are concerned, with the balance being pretty well scattered throughout the list. For the moment, therefore, I would continue to avoid the buying side as even the best of issues will be held back by others which have not completed their decline.

Soviet Organ Claims Great Progress Made
On Industrial Plans

MOSCOW, Oct. 23.—Investia, organ of the central executive committee of the Communist party, said today that the Soviet five-year industrialization plan finished its second year, October 1, 1930, with a great industrial victory all along the line for the Communist Government.

The biggest deficiency was shown in the light industries, which showed only an 11 per cent increase against the 23 per cent planned. The newspaper calls attention to a 30 per cent increase in industries to which the Government devoted greatest attention, this being only 28 per cent under the increase expected.

Montreal Stocks

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—Closing levels today on the Montreal Stock Exchange showed little change from the noon levels and most issues held small gains over yesterday. The list was featured by strength in the recently depressed paper stocks, in the leaders, Brazilian and Nickel, and in most of the power issues.
Brazilian ended at 25, a point higher than yesterday, while Nickel was up 1-2 at 17-1/2. Canada Power & Paper picked up 1-2 to 5 1-2. Abitibi, Dryden and St. Lawrence Corporation were slightly higher.
Montreal Power was unchanged, while B.C. Power at 35, up 1-4, and Power Corporation at 53, up 1-2, were power issues to show strength.

A lawyer was questioning a Scottish witness. "You affirm that when this happened you were going home to a meal," he said. "Let us be quite certain on this point, because it is a very important one. Be good enough to tell me what meal it was you were going home to."

"You would like to know," replied the lawyer impressively. "Well, then," replied the witness, "the meal I was going to was just oatmeal!"

The Other Bullet

CHAPTER XXII

Max Everett paced back and forth in the open space across the front of the darkening courtroom. He had thrust the empty chairs to one side to leave a clear passage for his tramping feet. From the tail of the jury box, past the deserted lawyers' table, to the side windows— from the windows past the table to the railing—sixteen paces, turn, sixteen paces.

He forced himself to cross the room and return ten times before looking again at the watch which he held open in his hand. There was a clock on the back wall of the courtroom, but its minute hand moved in a series of jerks, between which time stood still. The racing second hand of his watch was better—at least he could watch it move.

The jury had been out two hours and forty-three minutes. For two hours and forty-three minutes they had been balancing Alene's life in their hands. "No prejudice against the death penalty. But they couldn't do that to her? He veered sharply, shuddering away from the thought. The corner of the table struck his side, but he did not feel the pain of the blow; he merely pushed at the obstruction, blindly and continued his tramping from railing to wall. Prison—prison would be a living death.

"Beyond reasonable doubt? What were they finding to say for two hours and forty-three minutes? How could those twelve minds determine her guilt or innocence—those who did not even know her? Nine—ten—two hours and forty-seven minutes—no—no—would they never come? Could he bear to have them come?"

Midway between the judge's bench and the side wall he crossed a slanting oblong patch of light on the floor, from the open door of the judge's chambers. After accompanying Alene and the sheriff across the yard to the jail when the jury retired, he had slipped back to the courtroom, unnoticed by the newspapermen and lawyers who were whiling away the time of waiting inside. "The courtroom was dark now, and he could consult his watch only when, once in ten times, he paused on the rim of the patch of light. Four of the men within were playing cards, the others were smoking and talking. Fragments of his chatter pierced his consciousness dimly.

"The wisest thing you ever did was not to cross-examine Kurtner. I've seen that done too often. He's an old hand at the game, and you can't trip him anywhere," someone was telling Linforth.

"Once when I was a boy I accepted a suggestion to put my tongue on a frosty iron pump handle—once was enough," Linforth laughed.

"It was great stuff, pulling Kurtner as a surprise witness—but all that technical jargon sometimes goes over the jury's head."

"That was a top-notch speech you made, anyhow—I wouldn't be surprised if it fetched 'em."

"I wouldn't bet a plugged nickel on the way any jury in creation is going to jump."

Max tried to recall just what it was that Linforth had said in his closing argument. He had held himself in his chair by main force while he listened—his hands had twitched to knock the man down. But he listened again in his mind now, trying to hear how it would sound to the jury.

"Would not any woman lie to save not only her reputation but her life? Her story of an unselfish motive which led her to take a gun in her hand and shoot down an unarmed man is an obvious attempt to play upon your sympathies. Against that tale of outraged sisterly love is a misconduct so bold, so brazen that it has come to the knowledge of all of you."

Travis had objected to that. Objected! Linforth had dug her through the mud, and Max could not save her. He could only sit, white-lipped, and hear Travis object. The objection was sustained, but what did that matter? The mud had found its mark.

"Will you allow her pretty face to free this woman from the consequences of a brutal crime? Linforth had turned even her beauty against her, had taunted the jury until they would be ashamed to free her lest they be suspected of weak susceptibility. A high priced, smart city lawyer has come to you, has presented as evidence the technical jargon of a college professor. But it doesn't take a knowledge of chemistry to see plain facts. It doesn't take a college education. Hard common sense which the citing to her sex and age and personality, but only according to the facts before you. I ask that you do not condemn her for those things to which she was born and which she cannot help. I do not ask you to approve those things—I only ask that you dissociate them from the one question with which we are concerned.

"Would you condemn her because her training has been different from yours? You may visit on the results of that training the full weight of your moral condemnation. But remember, we are not here to judge of Mrs. Everett's character. We are here to decide only one thing—not whether she is such a woman as you admire, but only whether she killed Don Mortison.

"Insinuations of her misconduct have been allowed to reach your ears in this court, although you have been cautioned to disregard them. Against that gossip I would call to your attention only one thing—the attitude of the husband who has sat beside her throughout this trial. Max Everett, though he came among you as a stranger, is the type of man whom you can all understand. Would any man, deceived and betrayed, a man whose wife had slain her lover, uphold her with the absolute, unaltered confidence which Max Everett has displayed?"

"Look in your own hearts, and then look upon the face of this husband—and tell me whether the faces of any one of you could fall to show the torment of jealousy, of outraged trust, if there was justification for these suspicions. Against the gossip of outsiders I place the belief in her integrity of the person who knows her best, and who would be most sensitive to her failure to keep faith with him."

"Thank God—thank God for that! Max had felt so passive, so helpless, but perhaps he had been of some aid after all.

Then, as if he had cleared the ground for the single vital issue, Travis had thrown back his shoulders and raised his tall, lean figure to its full height. His voice was not raised, but it seemed to burn with a white, vibrant flame, like an acetylene torch.

"I tell you frankly, ladies and gentlemen, that the defence stands or falls by the testimony of one man—Emil Kurtner. I do not ask you to bow to him as an expert; I only ask you to understand him. The prosecution has cast slurs upon the 'technicalities' of this testimony. But that testimony is supported by two witnesses who are far from technical. Remember that Mr. Piper, a disinterested witness, noted that the body of Don Mortison was already stiffening when he found it. Remember that Mrs. Everett was puzzled because Mortison did not look up when she stood in the doorway and fired through the window. And remember that when they noted these things, neither one of them knew the meaning of what they saw!"

"The prosecution has asked you to rely on common sense against the findings of experts. True, you have not made an intensive study of bullets nor of chemistry. But you are also experts. You know sheep—and you know mines. You grade those sheep according to certain characteristics. Suppose I came to you and told you that you were wrong—that it was impossible to tell a good sheep from a bad one, because all sheep look alike to me. Suppose I came to you with a bit of rock in my hands, and you told me that the shining streak across its surface was not gold, but worthless quartz. These things are beyond your knowledge, but they are not beyond yours—therefore I would believe you, because you know. And if you explained to me how you knew, I would listen and try to understand."

Yes, he had somehow made Emil Kurtner one of them. He had not touched upon the great criminal's record of wizardry, his lofty attainments and international reputation. Max wondered what Kurtner would have thought if he had heard himself placed on a level with ranchmen and prospectors. And then, at the end, Travis had swung back to the tone of his beginning.

"I do not ask you to approve of this woman. But I offer you a challenge. I challenge you, because you disapprove of much that she has done, to make a special effort, therefore to be fair to her—to find her not guilty of the crime which was beyond her power to commit, since it had already been committed."

As Travis' voice dropped, Max had looked at the jury with agony in his eyes. With dull and inscrutable faces they had filed from the room. And as the familiar words were intoned, "Remember the admonition of the court—Alene had faced them, and withdrawing a red-geared gold cylinder from her bag, had deliberately rouged her lips.

She asked no quarter! There was magnificence in the sublime folly of her pride. But did she see—Max saw—that the arched line of the lip-stick wavered and broke in an unguessed sneer of red across her mouth?

Nine—ten. As Max bent to look at his watch in the oblong path of light, he shook his head impatiently. He could not see. A shadow blocked the doorway. He flung out his arm as if to brush the shadow away, as Peter, with a casual glance backward to make sure that his departure was unobserved, lounged from the light into the darkness of the courtroom.

FINDS THAT DUE CARE WAS NOT EXERCISED

In the Spanish police court yesterday, Magistrate Jay delivered judgment in the charge against F. Birch of driving to the common danger. The evidence in the case was taken last week showing that the accused in driving south on the dictation of guilt. I warn you lest in your commendable determination to stand upright you should bend backwards, and commit the injustice which you are most anxious to avoid. I do not ask that you show her mercy because she is a woman. I ask that you judge her, not according to her sex and age and personality, but only according to the facts before you. I ask that you do not condemn her for those things to which she was born and which she cannot help. I do not ask you to approve those things—I only ask that you dissociate them from the one question with which we are concerned.
